WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Leaders
of 500 demonstrators here to demand relief from Congress went to court today in effort to break the police lines which were in on three sides at the northeastern edge of the city.

Members of the League of Professional Groups retained attorneys to seek an injunction in District of Columbia Supreme Court to prevent authorities from interfering with the "constitutional" right of the marchers to "peacefully assemble and petition Congress."

A hollow victory was won by the demonstrators, when Justice Lurbie in the District of Columbia
Supreme Court set a hearing for Thursday to restrain police interference. The marchers plan to depart Wednesday.

ONE TO 14 YEARS FOR BOY, 16, FOR KILLING WITH HAMMER

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—Charles Bertrand Arnold Jr., 16 years old,
was sentenced to one to 14 years
in the Pontiac Reformatory today
for killing his step-grandmother, Mrs. Ellen O. Saxe.

He killed her with a hammer.
Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal Court, before whom the lad had pleaded guilty, imposed sentence on the manslaughter
count of the indictment.

Arnold beat the elderly woman to death and dragged her body to the clutter at the Arnold home in Riverdale because she slapped him
when he asked permission to use the family automobile. The boy stood stolidly before the judge as he was sentenced. Just before he was sentenced his father and the step-mother, whose mother he had slain, embraced him and gripped
his hand.

MRS. HOOVER CLOSES CAMP President Has Given Rapidly Prop- erty to State of Virginia.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Mrs.
Hoover has said good-by to Rapid Camp. Before another spring makes it habitable again, its transfer to the Shenandoah National Park will have been completed.
Mrs. Hoover visited the camp for several days recently, with friends to close it and remove personal belongings.

Mr. Hoover has given to the State of Virginia the mountain
camp which he purchased at an estimated cost of about $15,000, and on which he made improvements estimated to have cost $200,000.
He recommended that it be reserved
for the use of succeeding Presidents.

Irish Railway Strike Called.
DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Dec.
5.—Irish railroad workers decided yesterday to call a general strike at midnight Dec. 11 as a protest against the decision of a wage council to cut wages 10 per cent.

Order to Stick by Trucks.
The demonstrators retaliated by drawing a chalk line about 100
feet back of it toward their trucks.
Over the chalk line in large letters
the leader wrote: "Comrades, stick by your trucks."

Dared by various policemen to come on, the demonstrators late today marched toward the bluecoated ranks and wheeled as they marched rapidly toward the street and turned back toward their trucks.

Individuals who had funds were permitted to go to a nearby market to purchase food, pending the arrival of a food truck from an upper warehouse of the demonstration.

Because of the possibility that the demonstrators might march on the capitol, the building was closed
to the general public.
Rightseeing companies were told
they could not show crowds
through the capitol as usual. Sightseeing busses also were barred from the grounds and iron doors
at all the main entrances were closed.

Policemen kept clear the center
of the big plaza on the east side of the capitol and were ordered to keep it clear through tomorrow.
Large squads of police gathered at the capitol hours before the time to meet any effort of demonstrators to reach the House and Senate chambers. District of Columbia authorities assigned 100 patrolmen

TEXAS REGULATION OF TRUCKS UPHELD IN SUPREME COURT

Federal Tribunal Sustains Statute Putting Contract Carriers Under Control of Railroad Board.

SIMILAR LAWS IN OTHER STATES

Commission Has Power to Issue Permits and Is Required to Prescribe Minimum Rates.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The Texas statute regulating motor vehicles operating under private contract was sustained today by the Supreme Court.

This decision was handed down
in a case brought by J. H. Stephenson and others challenging such regulation by the State Railroad Commission.

Other states have similar laws.
The Texas act requires contract
motor carriers to obtain permits from the commission. These can be issued only after the commission has determined that the operations of the contract carriers
will not impair the efficient public service of a common carrier
when adequately serving the territory.

The commission also is required
to prescribe minimum rates, fares
and charges.
Stephenson and others contended the act was unconstitutional as it deprived them of their property without due process of law and denied them the equal protection of the laws.

The case originally was tried before a statutory three-judge Federal Court, which by a vote of 2 to 1 overruled the objections.

ROBBER SHOT BY POLICEMAN GUARDING CHICAGO STORE

Customer Wounded by Holdup Man Who Says He Is from St. Louis.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—A robber, who said he was Harry Sack of St. Louis and later asserted he was George Lipman, an ex-convict, was shot and seriously wounded last night when he attempted to hold up a cigar store in which a policeman was on guard.

Shot three times, the holdup man fired three shots in return and slightly wounded a customer of the store, John Lyon. He apparently thought Lyon had fired at him as the customer, aware that a policeman was stationed in the back room, moved rapidly to the outlet of the line of fire as the officer fired from around the doorway.

The robber said he was 42 years old and had served seven years in Sing Sing prison, being released in 1925.

mitted to Corporation.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—President Hoover's name was advanced today for the presidency of Harvard.
His name was suggested by Chester D. Fugleby of Peekskill,
N. Y., in a letter to Henry L. Shattuck, treasurer of Harvard, on the basis that Mr. Hoover is an honorary alumnus of the institution.
Fugleby's letter was made public today together with Shattuck's reply stating the suggestion would be submitted to the college corporation.

The Harvard presidency is to be vacant by reason of the recent resignation of A. Lawrence Lowell.

EINSTEIN MAKES THREAT TO CANCEL HIS VISIT TO U. S.

Irritated by Questioning Over Visa, Following Charge
He Is Communist.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Dec. 5.—Albert Einstein, Germany's famous scientist, stood like a schoolboy today before an American consular official who asked him rudimentary questions concerning communism, pacifism
and anarchism.

The occasion was his application for a visa for his impending trip to the United States. After the incident he issued an ultimatum to the consulate, declaring that if he failed to receive the visa within 24 hours he would not go to America.

Ordinarily a visa is granted to Prof. Einstein without his moving a finger. The reason for the questioning this time was not explained,
but recently the State Department at Washington forwarded a demand by the Woman Patriot Corporation that the scientist be barred from the United States on the ground that he is a Communist.

"When persons applying for visas hold certain political beliefs
it is difficult if not impossible to grant the visa. For instance, you are a communist or an anarchist?"
asked the Consul.

Prof. Einstein's patience broke.
"What's this, an inquisition?" he asked. "Is this an attempt at chicanery? I don't propose to answer such silly questions."

Prof. Einstein was visibly nettled because the Consul official apparently did not know of his scientific appointments.

"I am not going because I desire to visit somebody but because I have been invited," he said. "America does not want me." Frau Einstein interposed to suggest that the Consul refer to Mr. Hoover of America.

"Wouldn't it be funny if Einstein wouldn't let me in?" said Einstein later. "Why, the whole world would laugh at America."

HOUSTON'S LAST SURVIVING DAUGHTER KILLED IN CRASH Mrs. Nettie Bringham, 80, Fatally Hurled When Daughter's Auto Upended.

By the Associated Press.

ter of Gen. Sam Houston, first

Andrew Jackson Houston, brother of Mrs. Bringham.

Mrs. Bringham was the fifth born in a line of eight children,
whom four were sons and four daughters. Her mother, prior to her marriage to Gen. Houston, was Margaret Lea. Her husband, Maj.
William L. Bringham, a professor

JOBLESS DRUGGIST SHOOTS HIS WIFE THEN KILLS SELF

Arthur W. Bryant Wounds
Mate Three Times After Quarrel in Home at 3549
S. Jefferson.

WOMAN WANTED TO LEAVE CITY

Pair Married 18 Months Ago
in California and He Had Beer Out of Work Most of Time.

A drama of 18 months of married life had run from happiness to discontent, and the curtain had fallen on its tragic end when policemen ascended the stairs to the cramped second-floor apartment of Arthur W. Bryant at 3549 South
Jefferson avenue at 5:35 p. m. yesterday.

On the floor lay Bryant and his 28-year-old wife, so close together that their feet touched. Bryant, 32 years old, was dead from a bullet wound in the left side of the chest.
His wife, wounded three times, was semi-conscious. The policemen did not need her story, told in a swift ride to City Hospital, to arrive at the conclusion that Bryant had shot her, then killed himself.

Near his body on the floor lay an automatic pistol. Five shots had been fired from it and the empty cartridges were strewn around him.
A sixth bullet was still in the pistol.

Wife Wanted to Leave Town.
Mrs. Bryant's account of the shooting began with their meeting in California, where she was on a visit from her home in Ada, Ok., and he, recently graduated from a school of pharmacy, was taking a vacation before going to work.

Their acquaintance led to their marriage. They made their home in St. Louis. He tried to find work, but was employed occasionally in
the drug store of his father, William A. Bryant, at 2807 Mer-amec street.

"A week ago," said the wife, formerly Miss Lauderelle Dean, "I decided our best chance was to go back to my mother's home at Ada.
I told Arthur he could probably find work there, but he was unwilling to go. He would not listen to my arguments."

"Last night he came home about 5:20 and resumed his arguments against leaving St. Louis. I could see he had been drinking so I tried to change the subject, and began preparing supper. He went into the bedroom."

Appears With Pistol in Hand.
"A moment later he came into the kitchen and called to me.
I turned around from the stove and found him only a few steps away with a pistol in his hand. I said,
'Don't, Arthur—put the pistol
away.' He raised it and fired.
The bullet struck me and I fell to the floor. He fired again, several times, and then he shot himself, and fell near me."

Residents of the building who heard the shots called the police.
City Hospital physicians found Mrs.
Bryant had been wounded in the abdomen, left arm and right side.
Bryant had shot himself through the heart. He had taken the pistol
about a week ago from a drawer
in his father's store where it was kept for defense against robbers.

Cameron, said Miss Flower had been dependent since the death of her husband, John Hurley of

CLEANERS' PRICE WAR; SUITS 37 TO 60 CENTS

One Plant Announces Scale
Based on Owner's Valuation of Garment.

Cleaners and dyers opened a price war today with announcement of new and reduced price scales by operators of the larger plants as well as the small establishments.

New prices for cleaning and pressing of suits and overcoats
ranged from 60 cents down to 37.
The plant which offered the minimum price also agreed to clean dresses for 47 cents if below $30, coats, plain or fur-trimmed, for 52
cents.

Several plants offered graduated prices based on the owner's valuation of the articles to be cleaned.
Thus, one plant offered to clean dresses, coats, suits or overcoats for 50 cents if their valuation was below $10, 75 cents if below $20,
and $1 for articles worth $31 or more. Several others announced one scale of prices, substantially reduced from first quality service,
which includes minor repairs, and another still lower scale for simple cleaning and pressing without repairs.

One operator announced his prices were unchanged with the comment that "inferior cleaning damages fabric," and "there is no substitut for quality." Another operator offered a price of 50 cents
for the customer turning in the largest amount of clothing to be cleaned.

COUNT FOR RESOLUTION 272, WITH 144 AGAINST

Two-Thirds of Those Present Necessary for Approval Lacking, After Rules
Are Suspended and 40-Minute Debate Is Allowed

MISSOURIANS STAND 14 TO 2 FOR CHANGE

Garner Says He Will Do All
in His Power to Stop Any Move Not in Line With Democratic Platform—
Action on Beer.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—By a margin of six votes, the Garner resolution proposing submission to the states of an amendment flatly repealing the eighteenth amendment failed of adoption in the House of Representatives this afternoon.

The count was 272 for the resolution and 144 against it. A two-thirds majority, or 278, was required for adoption.

Analysis of the vote disclosed that 168 Democrats, 103 Republicans and one Farmer-Laborite had supported the resolution, and that 43 Democrats and 101 Republicans had voted against it.

Taken on the opening day of the second and last session of the Seventy-second Congress, the vote was part of an unprecedented procedure in dealing with a proposed constitutional amendment.
The debate was held and the roll
called in a chamber filled to capacity and electric with excitement.

The Missouri delegation divided 14 for repeal to 2 against. The two voting for retention of prohibition were David Hopkins of St. Joseph, of the old Fourth District, and Joe J.

SENATE MEETS
FOR 20 MINUTES,
THEN ADJOURNS

Walter Walker Takes Oath
as Colorado Senator After 2100-Mile Dash by Auto
and Plane.

GIVES DEMOCRATS
ONE-VOTE CONTROL

Party Will Not Attempt to Reorganize in Brief Session—Davis Does Not Appear at Capitol.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The Senate completed its opening session in 20 minutes and adjourned today after disposing of routine formalities. Adjournment was taken out of respect for members who have died.

Walter Walker, Grand Junction,
Colo., publisher and a Democrat,
took the oath as a Senator today
to make the temporary lineup 48 Democrats, 47 Republicans, and one Farmer-Labor.

The seating of Walker followed his 26-hour dash of 2100 miles by automobile and airplane to arrive
in time for the opening session.
While his assumption of office gave
the Democrats a plurality of one,
party leaders gave no indication
they would attempt to take immediate control of the Senate.

Walker was appointed to serve in place of the late Republican Senator, Charles W. Waterman, but was defeated in November for that term by Karl C. Schuyler, a Republican, and can serve only until Schuyler qualifies. Schuyler's cer-tification papers were held up at the last minute by failure of Hinsdale County to turn in its election reports to the canvassing board in time for the Republican to take the oath on the opening day. However, Schuyler's election was certified at Denver today.

Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania failed to answer today
when the first roll was called in the Senate. Davis was not on the floor, or in his office. Last night Mrs.
Davis said she did not know where the Senator went after seeing the Army-Navy game in Philadelphia
Saturday. There have been rumors
the Senator would not appear on the floor until after his trial by a Federal Court on a charge of violating the lottery laws and disordering the Loyal Order of Moose.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas,
the Democratic leader, said the Democrats would not attempt to take over control of the Senate at this session. Robinson took the position it would be "childish" for the Democrats to attempt to reorganize the Senate now inasmuch as the plurality will be switched just the other way when Schuyler's election papers arrive this week.

Schuyler, personal friend of Walker, was in the Senate when Walker was sworn in. Colorado will have the distinction of sending two short-term Senators here for qualification within a week.

Vice-President Curtis' call to order signified the final chapter of his long congressional career and in the gathering that faced him
were many old timers going back to private life next spring. Eighty members answered the opening roll call.

Three Senators left sickbeds, to attend the opening session. Senator Brookhart, Iowa Republican, left Walter Reed Hospital, where he is recuperating from pneumonia,
just long enough to answer the first roll call. Senator Nye, North Dakota Republican, recovering from an automobile accident, and Senator Sheppard, Texas Democrat, who has been ill for the last day or two, both left their homes
for the occasion but hurried back.
Nye learned today from an X-ray examination that he broke four, instead of two, ribs in his accident
several weeks ago in Wisconsin.

SENATE COMMITTEE CHANGES
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Four Senate Committee chairmanships will change hands shortly under plans made today by Republican leaders.

Senator Hale, Maine Republican,
will become chairman of the powerful appropriations committee to fill the vacancy created by the death of Senator Wesley Jones of Washington. Hale's place at the head of the naval committee will be filled by Senator Oddie (Rep.) Nevada. Senator Dale of Vermont will take over the postal committee in Oddie's place and Senator Brookhart (Rep.) Iowa, will take Dale's chairmanship of the civil service committee. Oddie and Brookhart were defeated this year.

Seaman Transferred to Liner for Operation at Sea

Sudden pains developed by William Anderson, oiler aboard the steamer Dakotan, off the Mexican coast, caused the ship's officers to radio a call for medical aid. The liner President Coolidge, from New York to California, heard the call, and Surgeon W. M. Wildman, after radio diagnosis, determined that Anderson was in a serious condition from appendicitis. The vessel, 100 miles apart, raced toward each other, and in the morning Anderson was taken aboard the President Coolidge and successfully operated on. Picture shows Anderson being brought aboard the liner for the operation.

ROOSEVELT WINDS UP CONFERENCES
AT WARM SPRINGS

Receives Several Callers Although He Had Planned
Day of Rest—To Leave Georgia Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.
WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Dec. 5.—
President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt continued his conferences today, the last day of his present visit at Warm Springs. He had expected to rest today before leaving for New York City tomorrow.

His callers included Gov. Harry Woodring of Kansas, Guy T. Helvering, the Democratic Chairman
from that State, and Jacob Coxey
of Massillon, O., who led the famous march on the nation's capital
by jobless in the last century.

Woodring said that if there was anything his State was interested in it was farm relief. He and Helvering had a luncheon engagement with Gov. Roosevelt at the latter's Pine Mountain cottage.

Coxey said a five-minute talk with the Governor, during which he discussed his plan for the creation of a national currency predicated on war debts. Then came Mayor James L. Key of Atlanta to pay his respects, and L. A. Bierley of Winter Haven, Fla., to invite the President-elect to attend the orange festival starting there Jan. 24.

Coxey said Gov. Roosevelt had promised to see him again before March 4.

The President-elect took his usual swim in the patients' pool,
but varied his procedure to make a visit to the infirmary for a physical examination before visiting the pool.

Senator Cutting of New Mexico,
first of the Independent Republicans to visit Gov. Roosevelt, laid his legislative views before the President-elect.

In a long conference here yesterday, decided they were similar and left for Washington to talk with colleagues about a concerted program.

Cutting said he and Gov. Roosevelt agreed a wide range of legislative subjects, including farm relief, reforestation and Indian Bureau affairs, in their conference.

While he indicated that he had some legislation that he planned to propose, the Senator said there was nothing that could be said about it now.

The meeting of Republican Independents suggested by Cutting
would enable that group to ascertain whether it would rally as a unit behind the farm relief, budget and beer measures that are being planned by the Democrats in the hope they can be passed at the short session in order to avoid an extra meeting.

Cutting said it was too early to speculate over the possibilities of a new party alignment of Western Independents and Eastern Democrats.

"That depends entirely on what the Democrats do toward carrying out their program and what the Republicans do," he said.

The Senator added in response to a question as to the possibility that a new party would grow out of the recent election that this, too, was dependent on what the future brings.

"I think the whole political sentiment is more fluid than ever before," he said.

to supplement the younger and inexperienced Capitol force.

Within the Capitol, all corridors were watched closely. Admission to the gallery floors was by ticket
only, and all except employees were denied entrance.

At the White House similar precautions were taken.

A heavy guard of police surrounded the executive mansion from early morning on. In addition to pairs of White House police at each entrance to the extensive grounds, metropolitan and park policemen, patrolled the sidewalks
around the State and Jacob Coxey
of Massillon, O., who led the famous march on the nation's capital
by jobless in the last century.

Gov. Roosevelt gave a part of his day to consideration of New York State affairs in contemplation of the message he must write to the special session of the State Legislature opening Friday. Judge Samuel Rosenman, a close adviser, spent considerable time with him.

HYMAN GORDON DEFEATED;
STILL LEADS CHESS CONTEST

Y. M. H. A. Player Loses to Roland
A. Alpiers of Missouri Pacific

Hyman Gordon, Y. M. H. A. chess player, was defeated Saturday night for the first time in the St. Louis individual chess championship tournament at the Gatesworth Hotel. The winner of the match was Roland A. Alpiers of the Missouri Pacific-St. Louis Club.

Gordon, with five victories and a draw, still leads the field of nine contestants, but is closely trailed
by Harry Lew, Y. M. C. A. Club,
who has four victories, one draw and no defeats. Lew will take the lead if he wins a game with E. J.
Maithe which was not completed
Saturday night. In another game,
Lewis W. Haller defeated W. Wagner.

The police arriving at the camp
just before noon came in buses,
trucks and patrol wagons, which were parked across the end of the street. This formed a barricade which would force any oncoming group of demonstrators to turn either up a sharp slope or down a steep embankment falling some 65
feet almost vertically into the adjacent railroad yards. The arriving officers were massed about the vehicles.

Federal authorities kept a watchful eye on the marchers. Observers in plain clothes from several Government agencies were on duty at the concentration camp and at the Capitol.

At the Capitol, meanwhile, Vice-President Curtis said he would receive a delegation of not more than three of the demonstrators. He gave a statement to members of the Senate who inquired of him.

"I will be glad to receive a delegation of three," said Curtis, "if it wants to present a petition or to talk with me. That is the same course we always pursue."

After about an hour had passed with no indication the demonstrators planned to rush the police lines, the trucks, buses and patrol wagons were removed but several other vehicles remained about.

The demonstrators meanwhile gathered in groups of 200 to 300 to hear speeches by their leaders, cheering vigorously at references derogatory to police. Three or four officers stood near each of the groups.

In a conference with march leaders at police headquarters, Maj. E.
W. Brown, Superintendent of Police, flatly denied them a permit to parade from their quarters on New York avenue to the Capitol plaza.

The demonstrators converged on Washington in three groups yesterday and today they were still on the stretch of street to which they were shunted on arrival. They were cold and cramped from a night spent in their trucks and automobiles. Two or three hundred women among them, however,
were allowed during the night to go to homes of friends and sympathizers in the city and several who became ill were sent to hospitals.

The marchers complained bitterly of their treatment but agreed they were helpless before the police strategy.

Benjamin and other leaders
counseled restraint to their followers and several times ordered back trunk and suitcase carriers who talked
of a rush on police lines.

Violent at first, the Eastern delegation, first to arrive, accepted
the situation as it watched police reinforcements grow and saw among them squads armed with tear gas of a type which produces violent nausea. Even the later arrivals of a large Western contin-gent and a smaller Southern group caused only a few scattered cheers.

A chant grew in volume as the night wore on and scanty food supplies failed to assuage hunger. It was a variation of a college yell:
"Are we hungry? Hell, yes!" Some sang the "Internationale."

Under the procedure agreed upon, debate was limited to 20 minutes on a side. Sumner (Dem.) Texas, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, which had refused to approve the Garner
"naked repeal" resolution with its provision that ratification should be by state congresses rather than state Legislatures, asked the House to extend the debate by unanimous consent to an hour and a half on a side.

Dyer (Rep.) St. Louis, killed the proposal with his objection.

A request by La Guardia (Independent Rep.) of New York, that each side be given an hour met the same fate. The objector in this case was Dickstein (Dem.) New York.

Michener (Rep.) Michigan, a former dry now voting wet, asked for delay in order that the repeal question might be given greater consideration. Garner ruled his request out of order and the brief
debate began, in less than an hour
after the opening of the session, got
under way.

Rayner had the allotment of the
time on the Democratic side and Christopherson of South Dakota on
the other. Time was parceled out
in one and two-minute portions.

Speakers on both sides appeared to take it for granted that the wet side had won. The enthusiasm of the repealists rose high as Min-
norty Leader Snell of New York,
while asserting that the resolution
ought to carry a safeguarding provision against the return of the prohibition, announced that he nevertheless voted for the Garner proposal. He would do this, he said, in the full assurance that the Senate would amend the resolution and send it back with reservations banning the saloon and protecting the dry states against liquor from wet territory.

"After the resolution comes back in amended form from the Senate,"
said Snell, "it will stand some change of early ratification by the states and will be a much more satisfactory resolution than the one we are called upon to vote for today."

quite enough votes. We figured this morning that at least 155 Democrats would support the resolution.
We actually had 168. We never could tell how many Republicans would vote with us and that was the reason I couldn't tell you whether the resolution would be adopted."

Now to Beer Legislation.
Garner refused to commit himself as to the possible effect of today's defeat. He said that "It might help beer legislation; nobody can tell."

He said that the Ways and Means Committee would start hearings Wednesday on beer legislation
which would last about a week.

"There is also a legal angle to beer legislation," he continued,
"and it may be necessary to call on the Judiciary Committee for advice. It shouldn't take more than two or three days. I am hoping that this legislation will be reported about the middle of next week."

He explained that the beer legislation probably could be passed as a revenue measure because it carried taxation and would therefore be privileged. He refused to say whether the beer legislation might be brought in under a special rule.
He also declined to answer questions about the bearing of today's vote on the prospect of an extra session.

Rayner's View of the Vote.
"Defeat of the prohibition repeal resolution probably will make an extra session necessary," Representative Henry T. Rayner of Illinois, Democratic floor leader, said.

"The vote we got today is a wonderful one," he said. "This is a dry Congress. It was a moral victory for opponents of prohibition. We were informed that four members who were absent would have voted for the resolution had they been present."

"Lame ducks, many of whom were beaten in the last election by wets, beat the resolution. We lost 10 votes of Republicans who requested out of order and the brief
debate began, in less than an hour
after the opening of the session, got
under way."

Rayner had the allotment of the
Christopherson of South Dakota on
the other. Time was parceled out

This was the line taken by a number of former drys, such as climbed aboard what looked like the repeal bandwagon.

Moore (Rep.) Ohio, a dry leader, declared in an impassioned appeal against the resolution that, in the whole history of the nation, there has never been such "drastic and ruthless" procedure as that under which Garner was forcing his res-

82 RETIRING HOUSE
MEMBERS AMONG 144
WHO BEAT DRY REPEAL

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—EIGHTY-TWO members of the House who will not serve in the next Congress voted today against the repeal resolution. Eleven were Democrats and 71 Republicans, as follows:

Democrats: Dominick, Edlick, Hal of Mississippi; Hare, Lanford, of Georgia, Larsen, Mobley, Norton, of Nebraska; Paterson, Wingo, Wright.

Republicans: Adkins, Allen, Beady, Biddle, Bowman, Brand, Burdick, Cable, Campbell of Iowa, Chipfield, Christgau, Christopherson, Cole of Iowa, Colton, Crall, Davenport, Eaton of Colorado, Finley, Free, French, Garber, Goodwin, Hadley, Hall of Illinois, Hall of North Dakota, Hardy, Haugen, Hawley, Hoch, Hogg of Indiana, Hogg of West Virginia, Holaday, Hopkins, Houston of Delaware, Morton D. olution to a vote. He said that the resolution, if finally adopted, would mean the inevitable return of the saloon.

Beck and La Guardia for Repeal.
The wets had a chance to cheer—and took it—when Beck (Rep.), Pennsylvania, asserting that "the day of salvation from the bondage of prohibition" was at hand, said the wet Republican group of the House has caused this morning and "unanimously and enthusiastically" resolved to support the Garner resolution.

The Beck announcement seemed to spell victory for the resolution, and most of the speakers who followed him took it for granted that the fight was all over but the shouting. The only dry Republican who went along with the wet sentiment in his district was greeted with a gale of applause and triumphant laughter from the wets.

"As long as Congress is as responsible to the will of the people as it is today," said La Guardia of New York, "the future of the Republic is safe."

Stalker, very dry Republican from New York, pleaded with the House to give prohibition "a fair chance" before voting repeal.

Frederick (Rep.) Massachusetts, said he preferred the Glass resolution in the Senate, with its explicit protection of the dry states, but would vote for the Garner proposal in the expectation that the Senate would amend it.

Mrs. Mary T. Norton (Dem.) New Jersey, was applauded when she said that, in voting for repeal, she was expressing the will of "many millions of women of both parties."

The fiery Blanton (Dem.) Texas, pleaded with the House not to be "stamped into undoing the prohibition work of a hundred years." Calling the roll of several prominent wets, such as La Guardia of New York, who were defeated in November, Blanton denied that the elections gave Congress a mandate against prohibition.

Mapes (Rep.) Michigan, and others belabored the point that they called his automatic methods in dealing with the repeal question.

Dyer Calls for the Vote.
Manlove (Rep.) Missouri, demanded to know "what the people in this country will call a House in which whiskey is sold."

Huddleston (Dem.) Alabama, always outspoken and often a rebel, said he had voted against the repealists rose high as Min-

UNITED CAMPAIGN FOR RELIEF STARTS $3,850,000 GOAL

Leaders in Addresses to Workers Appeal to Cruising Spirit to "Save Soul of City."

GOV. CAULFIELD AMONG SPEAKERS

Chairman Watts Says It Is Just Good Business to See That People Are Not in Want.

Workers in the United Relief Campaign, who met last night in the gymnasium of St. Louis University to hear a final word from their leaders, today set about the task of raising $3,850,000 by Dec. 31 for 82 Catholic, Jewish and Community Fund relief agencies. Messages of encouragement were given at the meeting by Gov. Caulfield, Archbishop Glennon, Rabbi Iserman, Walter B. Welsenburger, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Frank O. Watts, general campaign chairman. The governor said it was heartening to see how leaders of St. Louis, with the aid of an organized army of citizenry, have met this distressing situation for the past three years. The Archbishop urged the gathering to an early start, sometimes, the burning of stoves was ordered. The witches in this case, he suggested, were depression and despair.

Appeal to Crusaders' Spirit. Rabbi Iserman urged campaign workers to go forth as crusaders to save the soul of the city. Welsenburger pictured them as fomenters of the black horse of the Apocalypse, starvation and pestilence. He said it was just good business to see that people are not in want.

Campaign workers filled the floor of the blue and white campaign tent, and a few sat in the gallery. The speakers' stand had been erected in the south end of the gymnasium, and beneath it was a large sign which read: "The physical suffering was nothing compared to the spiritual suffering that comes to men helpless and hopeless. But there was a better side to it."

"It is the glory of our men and women," he said, "that they cannot rest content while conscious of suffering among others. A cry of distress has always found quick and generous response. In St. Louis, and in America, we are visited with a situation in which millions of men, women and children are in want through no fault of their own. This presents a challenge to those who still have a sense of wealth or income."

Like these, the Government has a tendency to look too much to Government to alleviate distress. That he characterized as alien to American spirit and tradition, and he was glad that in St. Louis the community had not shirked its responsibility. Children of the Poor. Rabbi Iserman confided that his small son was sick at home, and he spoke of the tender care given him, contrasting it with the need of the children of the poor.

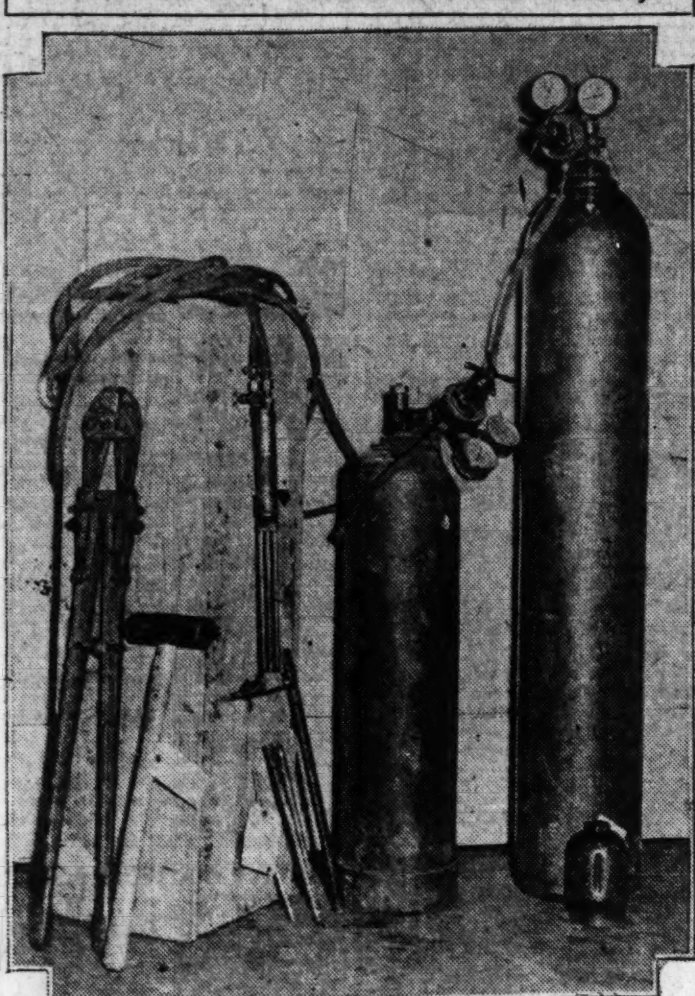

"Have you ever seen the children of the poor?" he asked. "They are just as sweet and innocent as yours and mine. They, too, come trailing clouds of glory from the East. They, too, look wonderingly at the world with their big eyes. They cannot see the tragedy that is in ambush for them. Disease, discouragement, foul air, lack of clean clothes, like assassins, aim at them and claim their toll of innocent victims."

"What have these children done that life must be so harsh with them? For what crime are they being punished? Unemployment? They had no share in it. Misery?—they did not invent it. Do not see that if we fail to battle with decent living conditions, with hospital services, with nurses' care, with drugs, food, and clothing, we shall be condemning many to death?"

"What has my child done that he deserves such care and protection? What have these children done that they merit such neglect and hardship? Where is the justice of it? Where is the love and compassion of man for his fellow man?"

That is the story you should tell.

Safe-Crackers' Tools Left in Grocery

those whom you are going to ask to contribute. Tell them not of hospitals, orphanages, of buildings. Speak not of Jews, Catholics or Protestants. See beyond the institutions, the brick, the creeds. See human beings, made in the image of God like you and me. See little children, glorious like yours and mine. See them crushed beneath the hoofs of the horsemen—disease, hunger, despair and hardship. Tell them that children, mothers and fathers are ill, are famished, are doomed to perish unless they share with them."

Archbishop Glennon, like Gov. Caulfield, was impressed with the importance of not leaning too much on Government to succor the needy. Bond issues for relief, he said, mortgage the future and may lead to greater disasters. St. Louis had properly authorized a relief bond issue ($4,600,000), but he hoped it would not be necessary to use it. "All through the depression," he said, "our relief organizations in St. Louis have been in the forefront. They are there now, even more than before. All have joined together to ask you to sustain them, so that they may sustain those who are in need."

"That there is need of your generous support is apparent. There is an argument on every doorstep and street corner. The skeleton of want lurks in the closet of every home of the poor. If one is not moved by the cry of the hungry, nothing can move him. We are here tonight to appeal for the needy thousands, that they may have the bare essential, food, clothing and shelter."

"Defeatism in the Air." The Archbishop said there was talk of revolution, but he did not take much stock in it. In principle, he said, the Government of the United States could not be improved, and there was within it the power to correct its own evils. Defeatism, however, was in the air, and if there was danger of revolution, it would be a revolution caused by despair, by those who would say: "We have nothing to hope for. We must lift that cloud of despair, or let us destroy what there is."

"The tragedy of the twentieth century is that stark poverty, despair and sorrow have settled over our land. We must lift that cloud of despair, or let us destroy what there is."

"The only difference," he said, "is that the city's previous contributions were mostly eleventh hour measures to avoid social disturbance. This time the city's share of relief is ready first instead of last. That's the whole story."

The $4,600,000 bond issue recently voted, plus the $3,850,000 sought in this campaign, he said, would provide none too much to meet the needs of 1933. Indeed, if the burden of relief agencies grows next year at the rate it did during 1932, he warned, the total would not be enough.

"Mind you," said Welsenburger, "this is not just for the relief of the submerged tenth, the poor we have with us always. Today's victims are people like you and me, who never thought it would happen to them. They lived next door to you. Some have worked side by side with you in the endeavors of this community. This then, in its final analysis, is a fight for the community's self-respect, the community's health and social welfare, a fight that the home and character of our citizens shall not be hopelessly wrecked."

"Unless, voluntarily, we can correct the evils of our system, the march, perhaps, has been too rapid, the advance too precipitant, our progress ill-directed. For the waste of human souls, the destruction of human character, the production of human refuse, is not the will of God."

G. O. P. ADVISORY GROUP TO SELECT MAN FOR MAYOR

Candidate Will Be Chosen by Committee Which Has No City Hall Affiliations at Present.

A committee of Republican business and professional men and women, without City Hall affiliations, will be called within a short time to recommend a candidate for Mayor, whom the Republican City Committee will be asked to support in the next March primary.

Chairman Richard E. Gruner of the City Committee announced today that he had asked Daniel N. Kirby, of the law firm of Nagel, Kirby & Shepley, to convene the committee, which will be an enlargement of the present advisory committee. Gruner asked Kirby to select a large group, and to name those without political position or connection.

Kirby said he had accepted the assignment and would undertake to call the group together as suggested, but that the time for the meeting, or its personnel, was not determined.

Gruner said he would urge the City Committee to accept the candidate for Mayor endorsed by the advisory group, and that he believed, from consultation with other members, that the committee would follow this plan.

Gruner said he believed the public wished the selection of a Mayor to be made with as little interference as possible by present officeholders or politicians. "This does not mean that an officeholder or a politician might not be selected as the candidate for Mayor," Gruner said. "The Advisory Committee might decide that such a person would make the best Mayor. But the selection should be made by those not connected with politics at present."

Gruner said his own belief was that a candidate not now connected with official life would be the best selection. As a reason for this belief, he cited the widespread objection which has arisen to the assessments for street widening benefits. He pointed out that those in official positions at City Hall now were all connected in some way with the operation of this special assessment system. At the time the system was put into effect, he said, there was little objection to it, but now, with much property vacant, it is the cause of much complaint from property owners.

President Neun of the Board of Aldermen, who is the only announced candidate for the Republican nomination for Mayor thus far, opposed the South Fourteenth street widening, but favored the Gravois and other widenings.

The proposed action of the advisory committee will not necessarily keep Neun or any other aspirant, from filing in the primary. It would mean only that the city organization would support the selection of the advisory group.

AFRAID OF HOLDUP, GOES ON AFTER HIS AUTO KILLS MAN

Granite City Driver Reports to Police After Fatal Accident on Route 4 North of E. St. Louis.

David Craber, 36 years old, was killed by an automobile on State Route No. 4, north of East St. Louis, at 6 p. m. yesterday.

Theodore Aufderheide of Granite City, the driver, went to Madison, where he reported to police that he failed to stop at the scene because the presence of a second man caused him to fear a holdup.

"I was driving home from East St. Louis with my wife and two children when a man appeared in the road with his hand raised," Aufderheide told police. "The road is a short cut to Granite City, and traffic is light. My first thought was of a holdup. I averted the machine, but too late to avoid hitting the man. I stopped momentarily, then saw a second man beside the road, and an automobile parked nearby. I decided to go on, and report to police."

East St. Louis police received word of the accident through an anonymous telephone call. An ambulance was sent to the scene, the driver reporting that he found the body lying unattended in the road. The body was identified by Sam Coffman, a grocer, 1201 Pigott avenue, who said Craber had worked for him for 10 years, until 1926.

Craber, who was born in Russia, worked at odd jobs. He roomed at 913 South Thirtieth street, East St. Louis.

Aufderheide, a laborer, resides at 2201 Lowe avenue, Granite City. Two Passengers Hurt When Truck Hits Street Car.

Defense Witness Declares She Was Aggressor in Affair She Complains Of.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Overcome by distress over his broken engagement to another, Sidney Herbert Homewood, turned to Charlotte Gibson, whose advances he had previously repulsed. Prof. Walter Mackeller testified today as Homewood's trial for Miss Gibson's seduction was resumed.

Called as a witness for the State, which is trying to prove that the riding master persuaded the young woman to yield to him under promise of marriage, Dr. Mackeller gave testimony favorable to the defense, for Homewood has always maintained Miss Gibson, who will be a mother this month, pursued him.

"Homewood told me that Elizabeth Bishop broke their engagement," said Dr. Mackeller, who is a professor of English at New York University. Miss Gibson has testified Homewood told her he broke the engagement to Miss Bishop to be free to marry her.

"Sid told me he was afraid for a time after the broken engagement, he had lost control of himself," the professor related. "He said 'I said no to Charlotte so often' he said he had always repulsed her advances before that time."

Homewood did not make it appear that his engagement to Miss Bishop, now a student at Wheaton College, was permanently off, according to Dr. Mackeller. She told him she wanted to finish college then work for a year and perhaps then the engagement could be resumed, Homewood told the professor.

SHOWBOAT GIVES UP DRY LAND VENTURE

After Two Performances at Gayety Company Goes Back to River.

The company of the showboat "Hollywood," which did a flourishing business at Musick's Ferry landing last summer, ventured on dry land last week with disastrous results.

Presenting a tried and true "floating op'ry house" success, "Tilly Ann," it opened at the Gayety Theater, Fourteenth and Locust streets, Wednesday night for an indefinite stay. The run consisted of two performances, opening night and Saturday night, and today the cast returned to the boat, prepared to sail today or tomorrow for Memphis.

"Guess we'll stick to the rivers from now on," remarked "Cap'n Bill" Menke, skipper of the craft. "There are too many complications on shore."

One of the "complications," he disclosed, and an important factor in the decision to terminate the engagement at the Gayety, was the necessity of paying $10 each to five stagehands in advance, before each show.

"There wasn't anything for them to do," Menke remarked, "but it seems the union requires that many to be on duty. You see, we only use one set. There are no scenes to shift and whichever actor's handiest usually runs the curtain up or down."

"Besides, people didn't turn out as well as we hoped. I guess they missed the novelty of getting on a boat and seeing a show."

Menke said that there was a fair audience opening night and Saturday night, but that on Thursday night the house was so small there wasn't enough money in the box office to pay the stage hands in advance.

"So we just told the audience that the leading man had pneumonia poisoning," he related, "and gave them their money back. But the pneumonia poisoning was in the box office."

Menke pointed out that it takes a lot of people at a 40-cent top make expenses, when the first $50 goes for stage hands. Closing of the show does not represent any financial loss to him or his company, since they appeared at the theater under a percentage arrangement and their salaries are paid whether they are acting or just traveling on the boat between towns. The percentage Menke said, was one of the best he had had in many years on the rivers, and he anticipated the usual showboat crowds to "cheer the hero and hiss the villain" at Memphis.

FATALLY SHOT BY YOUTH HE ACCUSED OF HOLDUP

Jerry Burkhalter, 40 years old, a Negro, 1210 North Ninth street, died at City Hospital No. 2 yesterday of bullet wounds suffered in a shooting affray at Thirteenth and Wash streets Saturday evening.

Floyd Golden, 17-year-old Negro, is at the hospital with wounds in the abdomen and hip suffered in any exchange of shots with Burkhalter. The latter told police that he set out armed with a revolver to find two youths, who tried to hold him up last Friday. He met Golden, who he said looked like one of the youths he was searching for, and the shooting followed.

Golden, who lives at 1023 North Fourteenth street, denied participation in any attempted holdup. He said Burkhalter fired without provocation. An acquaintance, John Thomas, 19, a Negro, handed him a revolver, and he returned the fire, Golden related. Thomas corroborated Golden's statement.

LEFT HANDCUFFED BY ROBBERS AFTER BEING HELD UP

Anthony Reden Released by Police After Half an Hour's Work With Hack-saw.

Anthony Reden, part owner of a gasoline station at 6151 Manchester avenue, spent an uncomfortable half-hour early today until police with a hacksaw freed him from handcuffs with which a robber had locked his hands behind his back.

Reden, who is 19 years old, was inside the locked station at 5:30 a. m. when a white man and a Negro appeared outside. The white man asked if he might enter to get a drink. As Reden let him in, the man drew a revolver, robbed Reden of $15, then handcuffed his hands behind him and ordered him into the washroom.

After the robber and the Negro had left, Reden went outside looking for aid. He found a farmer asleep in a parked truck and had him call police. Patrolman William Nigemann and Thomas Neaf found a hacksaw in the back room at the station, laid Reden on a bench with the handcuffs in a vise and sawed the manacles loose.

When he gave a description of the robber and the Negro, both officers said they recognized the Negro as a man for whom they had bought sandwiches at 2 a. m. Meeting the Negro on Ivanhoe avenue, they asked where he was going and were told he was headed for Chicago from Springfield, Mo. When he said he had not had food for two days, they bought sandwiches for him and directed him to the railroad yards.

Reden said the Negro appeared to be frightened and apparently was acting as lookout against his will. Persons in the neighborhood said they had seen him later, walking east on Manchester avenue alone.

Four in Party Held Up and Auto Disabled by Robbers.
Mr. and Mrs. Jechial Reiss, 5550A Maple avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Grossman, 5023 St. Louis avenue, were held up early today as they drove in Grossman's automobile to Reiss' home. Three men, two of them armed, went up to the automobile and one tore the wires loose from the spark plugs.

Grossman was robbed of $10, his wife of $5, Reiss of $1 and his wife of $10. The robbers escaped on foot.

Louis Ausbrook, manager of an A. & P. grocery at Vandeventer and Greer avenues, and two employees, were forced into the refrigerator by two robbers, one with a revolver at 8 a. m. today. Cash registers were robbed of $40.

William J. Mansfield, Jr., 5919 Pershing avenue, and Miss Ruth Miller, 5253 Waterman avenue, were seated in his parked automobile in the 6000 block of Pershing avenue Saturday night, when two men, one with a revolver, robbed him of $30 and the young woman of 35 cents.

E. K. Meyersburg, 6253 Southwood avenue, and a woman companion were held up when seated in his automobile on Enright avenue near Belt avenue. He handed the robbers $3, but was searched and robbed of $7 more and the keys to the machine.

Charles Daniels, Negro newsboy, 1215 Wash street, was knocked down by a Negro who held a knife against him and took $2 at Seventeenth and Morgan streets.

Five holdups have been confessed, according to police, by L. T. Burton, 22-year-old Negro arrested several days ago. A Negro youth said to be his admitted accomplice has been in jail since Oct. 10. The places Burton admitted were: Drug store, 918 Pendleton avenue, Sept. 20; men's furnishing store, 4129 Easton avenue, Sept. 26; Chinese restaurant, 1311 North Garrison avenue, Sept. 15; drug store, 802 North Garrison avenue, Oct. 2; and drug store, 1026 Whittier street, Oct. 5.

Two young men who went to the University City police station early Saturday looking for a third youth who was not under arrest attracted the attention of officers. They were held and the third youth brought in. All were turned over to St. Louis police and are said by officers to have confessed a series of thefts.

They are said to have admitted a burglary at the tailor shop of Jacob Newman, 5507 Ridge avenue, Nov. 23, when $400 worth of clothing was taken. Two are said to have confessed they stole $200 worth of candy and cigarettes from the garage of Maurice Schreiber, 5550 Theodosia avenue, last week, and that they stole an automobile from 1332 Belt avenue, Nov. 29, later abandoning the machine. Police said nearly all the stolen property has been recovered.

Recovery of $200 worth of jewelry and other articles which had been sold for $7.50 was announced by police yesterday, after the arrest of a youth living on Hadley street. The property was stolen from the home of Charles Vasek, 1912 Wright street.

A Coincidence, Perhaps

MARILYN MILLER, motion picture and musical comedy star, and DON ALVARADO, her reputed fiancé, also of the screen, sailed for Europe on the liner Bremen several days ago, without passports or baggage and clad as photographed here at a farwell pier party to MRS. ALAN DWAN, wife of the movie director. Friends said the pair and five other stage people had failed to hear the "all ashore" warning and were carried off as unintentional stowaways. Curiously enough Miss Miller's next picture, it is reported, will be called "The Love Stowaway."

STAY OF DEATH SENTENCE FOR EAST ST. LOUIS YOUTH

Illinois Supreme Court Orders Review of Case of Charles Winchester, Convicted of Murder.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 5.—A stay of the death sentence pronounced against Charles Winchester, 20 years old, of East St. Louis for the murder of Emil Kirsch, was granted by action of the Supreme Court today in granting a writ of supersedeas, bringing the case here for review.

A motion for a new trial for Winchester was overruled by Circuit Judge Miller at Belleville Oct. 17, Judge Miller setting Dec. 16 as the date of Winchester's execution in the electric chair at the Chester penitentiary. Winchester was convicted of the murder of Kirsch, customer in the holdup of a drug store at 1438 East Broadway, East St. Louis, last June 6. Melvin Watson, convicted as his lookout, was sentenced to 99 years in prison.

MAN SHOT DEAD IN PARKED AUTO AS HE SITS WITH GIRL

She Says He Was Shot by Robbers but Vest Over Bullet Wound Is Not Pierced.
KANSAS CITY, Kan., Dec. 5.—Frank A. Schill, 28 years old, former railroad special agent, was shot to death as he sat in his parked automobile along a road early today with Ruth Valentine, 17. Police found Schill had been shot through the heart, but the bullet, of .38-caliber, did not pierce the vest buttoned across his chest.

Miss Valentine said she and Schill had fallen asleep after a slight quarrel about a friend to whom Schill objected. She said they were awakened by the flash of a light in the hand of a man who exclaimed "this is a holdup."

The girl told police the man leaped across her in the car and fired twice, ordering "don't reach for your heat," as Schill attempted to draw his .45-caliber revolver. She said she was ordered out of the car, walked to the nearest farm house and reported the killing.

The body was found outside the car, the feet on the running board. Police could not find Schill's revolver but his pocketbook containing $5 was not disturbed.

Miss Valentine said she had known, throughout their friendship, that Schill was married.

KLAN EX-DRAGON'S RELEASE FROM PRISON AGAIN DENIED
SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 5.—Federal Judge Thomas W. Shaffer today denied the petition of D. C. Stephenson, former Indiana dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, for a writ habeas corpus which would have freed him from the term of imprisonment he is now serving in Michigan City state prison.

Stephenson was convicted of the murder of Madge Oberholzer, Indianapolis in 1925, and has made numerous attempts to gain freedom.

"LATHER BURN" BANISHED!

THE MODERN SHAVE Lubrication Ends Irritation

THAT fiery red face you take to work every morning—that sore, burning, stinging face—is a "lather burned" face!

Lather is soap, and soap to saponify or lather, contains free alkali. Free alkali is a caustic. It dries the skin, burns and smart. It makes the skin sensitive and causes it to break out under the razor's edge.

Also, drying on the face, lather makes a slow path for the razor. The razor doesn't glide along, but stumbles, pulls and drags, nicking and hacking the skin. (How many times have you changed to a fresh blade in the middle of a shave only to find the same chopping and scraping?)

Shaving Humanized!
Mollé takes shaving out of the "cruel and inhuman treatment" class and makes it a merciful act to the face. Mollé dispenses with lather altogether. It replaces saponification with lubrication!

Mollé lays upon the face a film of cream—a unique cream that is at once soothing, cooling and lubricating!

The secret of a smooth shave is a smooth surface over which the razor can travel at full speed. The film of lubricant that Mollé lays upon the skin makes a slick path for the razor. The razor can get up speed. It can travel at full force. It can meet the hairs with a sweep that takes them off cleanly and closely without taking off some of the skin too.

A Mollé shave doesn't abuse the skin because it confines itself to the whiskers. The lubricated skin is razor-protected.

Does the Skin Good
A Mollé shave is balm to the skin as well as a shave. After-lotions are unnecessary and superfluous. Mollé itself is a skin improver. It contains fine oils that restore the freshness, softness and suppleness that exposure to weather takes out of the skin. Leave a little on your face after shaving and rub in and your face is set for the day.

fluous. Mollé itself is a skin improver. It contains fine oils that restore the freshness, softness and suppleness that exposure to weather takes out of the skin. Leave a little on your face after shaving and rub in and your face is set for the day.

Are You Still in the Dark Ages in Your Shaving?

Mollé is not for the man who is afraid to try anything new. The man who says his whiskers are too tough for Mollé—or who says he must see a lot of lather on his face before he can shave—is too fixed in a rut to try Mollé or anything else revolutionary. He is the type of man who derided the "horseless carriage."

The progressive man will be struck with the soundness of the Mollé principle and will be open-minded enough at least to try it. This is the type of man who in a few years has made Mollé one of the largest selling shaving creams, largely by word-of-mouth advertising. If YOU are open to conviction, you are welcome to try Mollé at our risk. Get a tube or jar today at any drug store and try it out, using your regular razor and blade. If you don't agree that it makes shaving a real pleasure instead of an ordeal, your money will be promptly and cheerfully refunded.

All drug stores sell Mollé, 30c and 50c tubes and 75c jar. Or write for liberal trial tube. A letter, postcard or the coupon below brings you the generous trial tube of Mollé, postpaid and free! Clip the coupon now and learn what a really smooth shave is.

EMBEZZLER PUTS OIL FIRM IN FUR BUSINESS

He Also Turns Prize Poultry Over to Company from Which He Took $300,000.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—The Socoly-Vacuum Corporation has come into possession of an odd assortment of property, including fur farms and prize chickens, one of its attorneys said yesterday, as a result of the efforts of an employee to make restitution for sums appropriated to his own use in the last seven or eight years.

The attorney, Claude Thompson, said William C. Head, an assistant paymaster in the Standard-Vacuum Transportation Co., a subsidiary, had signed a statement and had turned over to the company the property on which he said he spent most of the money.

Head was quoted as saying he put $300,000, all company money, into three projects—the Twin Brooks Fur Farm and the Twin Brooks Poultry Farm, near Bangor, Me., and a muskrat and beaver farm at Hudson, Me.

Head was said to be unable to give the exact amount of his appropriations and he refused to say exactly when they started, although he placed the date at "about 1924 or 1925."

The attorney said Head paid the men on oil barges and tug, and that because of the constantly changing personnel in this type of service, he found it possible to place on the payroll fictitious names or names of men who no longer worked for the company.

The discovery was made after the company, in its efforts to lower expenses, found that this department was not being reduced in proportion with others.

Some of the records were destroyed, the attorney said, so the task of making a complete check was an involved one. Head was described as a married man, living in Brooklyn. The attorney indicated information gathered by the company would be available to the proper authorities if they wanted to consider criminal action. Head was bonded.

Head was quoted as saying both the fur farms and the poultry farm were among the finest in the country. He said he had exhibited thousands of chickens in various parts of the country, winning many prizes with them.

Reports from thousands of families prove that the number, duration and costs of colds can be reduced by half with the new Vicks Vapo-Cold-Control Plan. Prove it for yourself, as directed in each Vicks package.

THOMASSON RELATIVES OFFER TO CARE FOR HIM

Willing to Supply Hotel Room, Valet and Pin Money During Litigation.

Relatives of Hugh W. Thomasson, real estate owner, against whom a sanity action is pending, offered today to pay his expenses at any "reputable, high-grade hotel situated in St. Louis," pending the outcome of the litigation.

The offer, made in a letter from the relatives' attorneys to Thomasson's counsel, Randolph Laughlin, says they will not only pay for "every comfort at the hotel," but also will furnish Thomasson, an elderly man, with "a valet and pin money."

Taylor R. Young, of counsel for the relatives at the recent 90-day hearing on jurisdiction in Thomasson's affairs, said the offer was made because witnesses for Thomasson denied on the stand that the relatives previously had offered to support him. Much testimony was given that Thomasson had suffered from cold and hunger at times in the last two years, income from his $750,000 of real estate being tied up by litigation. The relatives, who are headed by a second cousin, Miss Elmira Townsend, are seeking to show Thomasson was of unsound mind when he married young Mrs. Grace Carolyn Manrood in 1930. They have agreed to give their attorneys 50 per cent of anything they get from Thomasson's estate at his death.

Attorney Laughlin said today Thomasson and his wife had been living on money obtained by pawning her jewelry and fur coats and their household furnishings and by borrowing. Laughlin said he had advanced money to Thomasson. Asked what he would advise Thomasson to do about the relatives' offer, the attorney said, "He is a free agent. I shall not advise anything unless he asks me."

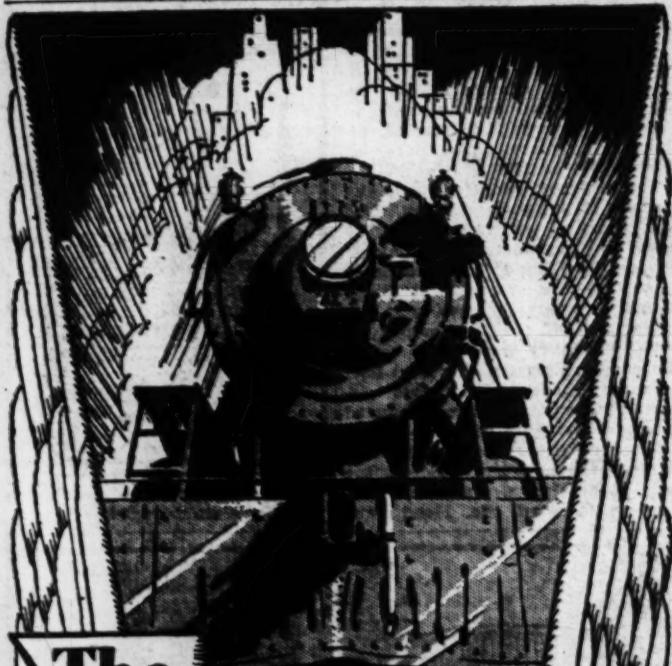

"And if he asks you?" the Post-Dispatch reporter continued.

"I'd tell him not to," Laughlin replied.

TEETH WHITEN 3 Shades
in 3 days

If you think yellow, stained, unattractive-looking teeth are natural, start using KOLYNOS—a half-inch on a dry brush twice daily. In 3 days you'll see your mistake. Your teeth will look 3 shades whiter!

Kolynos—unlike any preparation you've ever used—contains two important ingredients that clean and whiten teeth remarkably. One—the finest cleansing agent known—removes stain and tartar, foams into every tiny fissure and washes away decay-causing debris. While the other ingredient kills the millions of germs that cause most tooth and gum troubles and helps to make teeth absolutely clean. Thus Kolynos gently cleans teeth right down to the natural white enamel and soon makes them more attractive than ever. It refreshes the mouth and stimulates the gums. Buy a tube of Kolynos today.

SHIP ARE TAKEN ASHORE IN GALE

Only Woman Aboard Freighter at Mouth of Columbia River Transferred to Small Boat.

COAST GUARD CUTTER
SAVES CREW LATER

Captain Refuses to Leave—
U. S. Craft Stands by Several Hours Before Rescue.

By the Associated Press.
SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 5.—The crew of 31 men aboard the Sea Thrush, a freighter aground at the mouth of the Columbia River, was taken off by the Coast Guard cutter Red Wing following the rescue of a woman passenger yesterday.
The captain, E. J. Landstrom, while the ship was aground, insisted on remaining aboard.
News of the rescue was sent here by radio from the Red Wing. A stormy sea was taken off the ship by the Red Wing.
With a storm raging, the Red Wing had stood by for several hours until Commander H. C.
Hemmingway decided the freighter's position was becoming dangerous.

A few hours previously, a small boat from a life saving station had braved the high seas and taken off
the woman passenger, a Seattle
writer and the only woman passenger aboard, and brought her ashore.

Commander Hemmingway's message describing the rescue said:
"Have taken off crew of Sea
Thrush. Taking them to Astoria.
Captain has remained aboard Sea Thrush."

The Sea Thrush sent out a distress call at 8:27 a. m., saying it was aground on Clatsop Spit inside the Columbia River bar. The vessel had grounded about midnight in a heavy fog, a message said.

Racing to the scene from Astoria,
the Red Wing arrived at the side of the stricken vessel and stood by waiting for the weather
to abate.

Finally Hemmingway reported
the vessel's position was becoming dangerous and decided to take off
the crew.

Within a short time after receiving word of the vessel's plight, J. T.
O'Neill, Seattle manager for the day operators, sent orders for the tugs Salvage King, Arrow III and Monie of Astoria to proceed to the stricken ship.

Woman Passenger's Story of Rescue by Small Boat.

By the Associated Press.
ASTORIA, Ore., Dec. 5.—Miss Frances Whitting of Olympia, Wash., told last night of how she was suspended on a rope ladder
over the side of the steamer Sea Thrush, while a Coast Guard crew fought angry seas in a successful attempt to transfer her to its boat.

"I was at breakfast when the Sea Thrush went aground," said Miss Whitting. "In a few minutes the lifeboat signal sounded. The ladders were made ready, and then we waited to see just how bad
it was."

"I couldn't stay on deck because the waves were breaking over, and my greatest difficulty was in keeping out of the way of the crew."

"When the Coast Guard small boat came out I made ready to leave the ship."

"I know now why sailors don't care about having women around at a time like that; they have to take such trouble with them. I was treated wonderfully, and when I started to go over the side of the rope ladder, Capt. Landstrom preceded me and told me just where to place my feet. The sea was rough and the life guard boat had trouble staying near the ladder
and I had to hang suspended there until they could get into position."

Miss Whitting was bound from Olympia to New York by way of the Panama Canal.

GETS 10 YEARS FOR HOLDUP
IN POLICEMAN'S AUTO

Charles Bird, 21 years old, who while a policeman's automobile and used in a robbery, pleaded guilty in Circuit Judge Bader's court today and was sentenced to 10 years
in the penitentiary for the robbery
and two years for the automobile
holdup, the terms to be concurrent.

Bird was arrested Aug. 13 after an automobile chase by police in North St. Louis streets. The pursued ended at Labadie and Lambert avenues, when Bird's machine
turned over, injuring him.

The automobile belonged to Police Sgt. Christ J. Smith of the North Market Street District and had been stolen earlier in the day
from in front of 2012 Penrose street, where Smith left it parked with his 8-year-old grandson inside.
Bird put the boy out and drove to the North Florissant avenue,
where he held up a filling station,
taking $20.

Police pursued the car, which they recognized as Smith's, and Bird later was identified as the filling station robber. Bird, who gave his address as 2615 Montgomery street, served a 90-day term
in Michigan for carrying concealed weapons.

PARK POSTPONES NAMING POLICE, ELECTION BOARDS

Governor-Elect to Defer St.
Louis Appointments Until After His Inauguration.

Announcement of the personnel of the St. Louis Police and Election boards by Governor-elect Park,
he said today, will be deferred
until after his inauguration early in January. In the meantime he will compile a list of those suggested to him and from it will select his appointees with the advice of St. Louis friends.
The new Governor had little opportunity yesterday to consider major appointments. His rooms at the Jefferson Hotel were crowded

all day and well into the night with applicants for jobs, and he saw and talked with all who asked to see him. It was estimated that more than 300 persons talked to him
about appointments.

With his general conferences out of the way, he was free today to confer with close friends whose advice, it is understood, he will ask before announcing any St. Louis appointments.

Chief among these will be Guy
A. Thompson, former president of the American Bar Association; former Circuit Judge William T.
Jones, former Circuit Judge Daniel
G. Taylor, former Congressman William L. Igoe, former Gov. Frederick D. Gardner, Senator-elect Bennett C. Clark and Senator Hawes.

The Governor-elect has announced several times that he intends to make appointments which will meet the approval of representative business men of St. Louis and which will be recognized by the public as a guarantee that the police and election departments will be organized for service and not for political use.

With the conclusion of his conferences today, the Governor-elect will return to his home in Platte
City. He said that he had made several engagements for Wednesday on patronage matters, but that after Wednesday he would have no time to discuss patronage until after his inauguration. He has only a month in which to prepare his recommendations to the Legislature, which he will submit at his inauguration.

While in St. Louis he conferred with former Gov. Gardner on public affairs rather than on patronage, discussing State finances and

"Let's All Go Ahead—
the Time for Waiting is Past"

"WE are all anxious for the return of better times. But I for one do not believe that better times will be brought back just by talking ... or by merely waiting. Someone must start something ... and with that idea we introduced the Plymouth Six.

"We made it a completely new car. We spent $9,000,000 on tools, equipment and research. We have committed ourselves already to $42,000,000 worth of raw materials.

"We did this because we were convinced that there are many people who can buy new cars now ... and would if offered an outstanding value. And every new car sold ... whether a Plymouth or some other make ... puts more men to work.

"Look at the new Plymouth. Look at all three low-priced cars. And I sincerely believe your next car will be a Floating Power Plymouth Six."

The moment a cold shows, knock

If treated promptly—when the

Your doctor will also tell you that there is nothing better you can take for a cold than Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. Most physicians will frankly admit they couldn't write a better prescription for a cold if they wanted to. For Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine does the several things necessary to rout a cold, in the way that is necessary.

First, it gently, but thoroughly,
opens the bowels—the first requirement in overcoming a cold. Second,
it kills the cold germs in the system, drives out the poisonous infection and reduces the fever.

Third, it relieves the headache and that grippy feeling. Fourth, it tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

That is the treatment you want
for a cold, and for your own safety,
be satisfied with nothing less!

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine
may be taken with utter safety by young and old. It contains no narcotics and produces no bad after-effects. It does not upset country in the world it is the accepted cold remedy.

The "Stitch in Time"

In dainty tablet form, Grove's

DESCRIPTS DEFENSE
OF THE UNPOPULAR

Arthur Garfield Hays, Civil Liberties Union Attorney, Addresses Y. M. H. A.

Highlights in the defense of the
unpopular were detailed by Arthur
Garfield Hays of New York, attorney for the Civil Liberties Union,
last night at the Liberal Forum of
the Young Men's Hebrew Association, Union boulevard and Enright
avenue.

They included Kentucky mobs,
hisses or arrest for quotations from Lincoln or Jefferson, sworn testimony that the world was created
on Oct. 29, 4004 B. C., mine
guards' bullets, jails everywhere.

And yet, he remarked, the unpopular fared about as well in the United States as it did anywhere
else. When he visited Russia and
they talked to him of Sacco and Vanzetti, he related, he replied, "In Russia an anti-Soviet Sacco and Vanzetti would have been shot so
quickly no one would ever have
heard of it."

Fear, he said, was the cause of
repression of free speech, free assault and free press. There was no repression except of unpopular opinions on live issues. The test of civil rights was not whether
the average citizen could safely ex-
pound "dangerous" ideas, but
whether they could be expressed by
"the most pitiable, radical and defenseless person in the community."

Unfortunately, he pointed out, it
was in the nature of things that unpopular minorities must be led
by "fanatics," who care little for
"respectability" or even life in devotion to a cause. Remarking that he and his organization had no pet
group—though of necessity it
became identified in every community with that community's unpopular—he emphasized that repression was not a thing of any one
section or any one system, but of
human nature itself.

He told a story about the man
arrested in Philadelphia for questioning the Declaration of Independence. The policeman, informed that the words were Thomas Jefferson's, said, "Where is that guy? We'll get him, too."

Arrested by Miss Guards.

Years ago, he related, he visited
a Pennsylvania mining town where
a union was in process of formation, to hold a public meeting. The mine police ordered him out and,
when he refused to go, put him in jail. He told the Justice of the Peace he was ready for trial.

"All right," replied the Justice.
"I find you guilty and fine you $5."

Hays insisted on trial, to inform
"the millions who have wanted to know what goes on in these closed
towns."

And the Justice said,
"Well, then, you're not guilty."

The meeting was held under injunction. "And was there bloodshed?" Hays commented. "Of course not. We had the law and they had the power. Give one side
both and, human nature being
what it is, they are bound to be tyrannical."

A year or so later he returned to hold another meeting. The policeman who had arrested him greeted
him with the cordial offer of the theater or an open field. What had come over the town? The policeman explained that repressive
measures had been dropped, and
"we find we don't have much trouble with these people now."

Called Repression Unintelligent.

"As a matter of fact," Hays added, "there wasn't much interest in
our meeting. Expression gives people a chance to blow off steam.
That's one reason repression is so
unintelligent—because it rouses
such hate and such a sense of outrage."

Touching on the Scopes trial and
the orthodox Southern fear of "everything that might undermine the
faith of their children," he commented, "We of the North may
ridicule that, but as soon as
minorities begin to attack our economic system, our morals, our marriage system—or anything we regard important—we react in exactly the same way."

An anti-evolution law had been
beaten in Kentucky, he related,
largely because a legislator insisted it was not going far enough
to legislate against evolution; the
prohibition should extend to uncomfortable temperate extremes.

It had succeeded in Arkansas because, he thought, it had been
backed by a proselyting atheist.

"Even in civilized New York," he added, "the children are released
from school every Wednesday afternoon to go to church for half an hour of religious instruction. They go separately in their respective little groups, and pretty soon we have
in the public schools the very divisions that have excited prejudice
for generations."

"With the right to persuade and
the right to vote," he said, touching on the danger of suppression,
in the discussion following his lecture, "we have a way, theoretically,
to change the form of government
without violence. If you deny either of those rights, then there is
no way except violence."

Men Arrested in St. Louis Held at

William Sullivan and James

identified as participants in the
robbery of the First National Bank
at Sandoval, Ill., last Oct. 22, when about $5000 was taken, Sheriff

day.

Warrants have been issued charging them with participation in
other Illinois bank robberies, and
a holdup in Milwaukee last Aug. 30,
when $22,000 was taken from two
bank messengers.

The messengers went to Belle-

Murray and Sullivan, the Sheriff

Two factors, in particular, will

Vitamin A, provided in abun-

Vitamin D also present in

Scheme Works — Indorsed
by Prof. Irving Fisher.

YELLOW SPRINGS, O., Dec. 5.
—A small scale example of how a larger community might substitute paper scrip or chips of cheap metal for gold and silver is in successful operation in this farming area—and business is thriving
on it.

In this case the substitute currency is provided by a joint stock corporation instead of the Government, but the principles involved are so interesting to economists
that Dr. Irving Fisher of Yale University visited Yellow Springs to study the system. Afterward he gave it an indorsement.

Any person within trading distance who lacks cash, now can take his labor or his products to the Yellow Springs exchange, and deal in scrip in lieu of money. The plan works like this:

A farmer possessing 100 bushels of potatoes but no cash, wants a carpenter to repair his barn. The carpenter, perhaps otherwise unemployed, is willing to take his pay in commodities, rather than cash, but doesn't want exclusively potatoes. So the farmer sells his potatoes to the exchange which pays him in scrip. The farmer then hires the carpenter, paying wages
with this scrip, and the carpenter
spends the scrip at the exchange,
buying potatoes and other things
he needs. If either the carpenter or the farmer has some scrip left over he can keep it indefinitely
and spend it any time he wants to.

Scrip of the Yellow Springs exchange is issued on parchment
bond paper in denominations of 10
cents, 25 cents, 50 cents, $1 and $5,
and so popular has the store become that it has had to enlarge its quarters twice within the last two

DESCRIPTS DEFENSE

Arthur Garfield Hays, Civil Liberties Union Attorney, Ad-
dresses Y. M. H. A.

Highlights in the defense of the
unpopular were detailed by Arthur
Garfield Hays of New York, attor-
ney for the Civil Liberties Union,
last night at the Liberal Forum of
the Young Men's Hebrew Association, Union boulevard and Enright
avenue.

They included Kentucky mobs,
hisses or arrest for quotations from Lincoln or Jefferson, sworn testimony that the world was created
on Oct. 29, 4004 B. C., mine
guards' bullets, jails everywhere.

And yet, he remarked, the un-
popular fared about as well in the United States as it did anywhere
else. When he visited Russia and
they talked to him of Sacco and
Vanzetti, he related, he replied, "In Russia an anti-Soviet Sacco and Vanzetti would have been shot so
quickly no one would ever have
heard of it."

Fear, he said, was the cause of
repression of free speech, free assault and free press. There was
no repression except of unpopular opinions on live issues. The
test of civil rights was not whether
the average citizen could safely ex-
pound "dangerous" ideas, but
whether they could be expressed by
"the most pitiable, radical and de-
fenseless person in the community."

Unfortunately, he pointed out, it
was in the nature of things that
unpopular minorities must be led
by "fanatics," who care little for
"respectability" or even life in devotion to a cause. Remarking that
he and his organization had no pet
group—though of necessity it
became identified in every community with that community's un-
popular—he emphasized that re-
pression was not a thing of any one
section or any one system, but of
human nature itself.

He told a story about the man
arrested in Philadelphia for questioning the Declaration of Independence. The policeman, informed
that the words were Thomas Jefferson's, said, "Where is that
guy? We'll get him, too."

Arrested by Miss Guards.

Years ago, he related, he visited
a Pennsylvania mining town where
a union was in process of formation, to hold a public meeting. The
mine police ordered him out and,
when he refused to go, put him in
jail. He told the Justice of the Peace he was ready for trial.

"All right," replied the Justice.
"I find you guilty and fine you $5."

Hays insisted on trial, to inform
"the millions who have wanted to know what goes on in these closed
towns."

And the Justice said,
"Well, then, you're not guilty."

The meeting was held under injunction. "And was there bloodshed?" Hays commented. "Of
course not. We had the law and they had the power. Give one side
both and, human nature being
what it is, they are bound to be
tyrannical."

A year or so later he returned to
hold another meeting. The police-
man who had arrested him greeted
him with the cordial offer of the theater or an open field. What had come over the town? The police-
man explained that repressive
measures had been dropped, and
"we find we don't have much trouble with these people now."

Called Repression Unintelligent.

"As a matter of fact," Hays added, "there wasn't much interest in
our meeting. Expression gives people a chance to blow off steam.
That's one reason repression is so
unintelligent—because it rouses
such hate and such a sense of out-
rage."

Touching on the Scopes trial and
the orthodox Southern fear of "everything that might undermine the
faith of their children," he commented, "We of the North may
ridicule that, but as soon as
minorities begin to attack our economic system, our morals, our marriage system—or anything we regard important—we react in exactly the same way."

An anti-evolution law had been
beaten in Kentucky, he related,
largely because a legislator insist-
ed it was not going far enough
to legislate against evolution; the
prohibition should extend to un-
comfortable temperate extremes.

It had succeeded in Arkansas be-
cause, he thought, it had been
backed by a proselyting atheist.

"Even in civilized New York," he
added, "the children are released
from school every Wednesday afternoon to go to church for half an hour of religious instruction. They
go separately in their respective little groups, and pretty soon we have
in the public schools the very divisions that have excited prejudice
for generations."

"With the right to persuade and
the right to vote," he said, touch-
ing on the danger of suppression,
in the discussion following his lecture, "we have a way, theoretically,
to change the form of government
without violence. If you deny
either of those rights, then there is
no way except violence."

After Hearing Thomason Case.

Judge Hoffmeister resumed his duties in the criminal branch of Circuit Court today after having spent 90 days in the civil branch trying a jurisdiction plea in the Hugh W. Thomason guardianship case.

Judge Hamilton, in whose court
the plea was tried, and Judge Hoffmeister exchanged courts
after the trial.

Judge Hamilton also returned to his regular duties in his own division and will serve there until Dec. 21, when he will be transferred to an equity division.

TWO PRISONERS IDENTIFIED
AS ILLINOIS BANK ROBBERS

Men Arrested in St. Louis Held at Belleville, Charged Also With Milwaukee Holdup.

William Sullivan and James
Murray, who were arrested in St.
Louis week before last, have been identified as participants in the
robbery of the First National Bank
at Sandoval, Ill., last Oct. 22, when
about $5000 was taken, Sheriff
Munie at Belleville announced today.

Warrants have been issued charg-
ing them with participation in
other Illinois bank robberies, and
a holdup in Milwaukee last Aug. 30,
when $22,000 was taken from two
bank messengers.

SIX CALIFORNIA STRIKE LEADERS KIDNAPED, BEATEN

Taken From Jail After Arrest When Citizens Break Up Parade at Vacaville—Painted Red.

VACAVILLE, Cal., Dec. 5.—Six reputed leaders of a strike which has disrupted fruit picking in Vacaville were kidnaped from Vacaville jail early today, whisked away in automobiles and reported to have been painted red, beaten and told never to return to this vicinity.

The men were among 15 persons arrested during a clash in front of the public library Sunday. Police estimated 1000 persons participated in the fray when townsmen broke up a parade of 150 striking fruit workers who are demanding a wage of $1.50 a day.

The six were taken from jail by a group of men who drove rapidly into the country, in seven automobiles, warning others not to follow. License plates of the cars were covered.

After a prolonged search for the party, which he "guessed" was made up of irate townpeople and farmers, Police Chief O. E. Alley said he understood the prisoners had been turned loose 10 miles in the country and their captors had returned home.

Reports reaching Chief Alley were that the asserted strike leaders had part of their hair cut off, were painted red, beaten and sent off in pairs with warnings not to return.

As quiet returned to the town, Alley predicted the incident would result in immediate resumption of farm activity, which for more than a week has been reported virtually suspended because of turbulent conditions attendant on the strike.

The six men taken from the jail were Claude Thompson, Sacramento; Bob Nelson, Mountain View; Tom Clark, no address; T. Marti-

Max Rodriguez, Arthur Warner and A. Aliya, also arrested during the city library disturbance, were not taken from the jail. Six other persons, one a woman, who were arrested after Sunday's disturbance, were taken to the county jail at Fairfield last night and ordered held on charges of disturbing the peace.

Vacaville residents said speakers at a mass meeting several days ago suggested the way to settle the labor difficulty was to drive persons who they claimed were outside agitators from the community.

HEMINGWAY FLEES MOVIE OF HIS 'FAREWELL TO ARMS'

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 5.—Indignant over the "happy ending" in the screen version of his book "A Farewell to Arms," Ernest Hemingway prepared today to say a farewell to Figgott, Ark., ahead of the arrival of the picture being rushed there for a "world premiere" before him and his friends.

"I did not intend a happy ending," the author said in a telephone interview with the Arkansas Democrat here, in answer to the producers who he said justified the change by saying he "had in mind a happy ending when he wrote the book."

PASTOR ATTACKS ATTITUDE OF FRANCE ON WAR DEBTS

The Rev. Dr. Robert Porter Says Europe Calls Us Shylock and Thinks Us Santa Claus.

"Europe calls us Shylock and thinks us Santa Claus," the Rev. Dr. Robert Porter said in his vespers talk at First Congregational Church yesterday, on "France's Real Attitude Toward America."

"France's recent attempt to push the United States off the gold standard would hardly be interpreted as an act of friendliness," the minister said. "France led Europe in the raid on our gold reserve. France maliciously spread throughout Europe false reports, asserting that the United States was about to go off the gold standard. Then she attempted to dictate interest rates in New York, at the same time threatening to withdraw the remainder of her credit balance, $600,000,000. Wall street called this bluff by telling her to go ahead and take it; that New York would herself determine what rate of interest she would pay. For once we had some nerve."

"When the war was at its height, the funds for which she pleaded, we loaned her on her positive pledge to repay us. Although we offered to settle with her for 50 cents on the dollar, absorbing a 50 per cent loss ourselves, and she having more gold per capita than the United States, and having collected heavy reparations from Germany, paid for with American money, France still evades her pledged responsibility."

"Year after year she takes unjustified advantage of our good will and patience. We have always been friendly to France, but it takes two to be friends. May France finally reciprocate!"

Doctors will tell you that laxative drugs taken by the mother are a danger to baby. It is a crime to risk your baby's health. That is why they so often advise Cream of Nujol.

This new form of Nujol is specially suitable for expectant and nursing mothers because it does not upset the stomach or cause cramps and does not pass into the milk.

Moreover, it is delicious and easy to take. As a cost of only a few cents a day it will make you "as regular as clockwork," and protect the health of your child. Buy it at any drug counter.

COMMERCE CHAMBER BOARD OPPOSES ST. LAWRENCE TREATY

Says Fact Would Jeopardize Mississippi Navigation Below Mouth of Illinois River.

The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce has announced its opposition to the St. Lawrence Waterways Treaty and has recommended that the Senate appoint a committee to report on the economic value of the project before ratifying the treaty.

The board, acting on recommendation of the River Committee, said that ratification of the treaty would jeopardize transportation on the Mississippi River below the mouth of the Illinois River through a limitation on withdrawal of water from Lake Michigan into the Illinois waterway system.

The treaty provides for construction of a deep waterway for navigation from the interior of the continent through the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River to the Atlantic Ocean, with development of incidental waterpower.

SAYS WIFE CENSORED HAWTHORNE'S WRITING

Yale Professor Declares Prudish Editing Seriously Misrepresents Author's Character.

By the Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 5.—Prof. Randall Stewart of Yale says Nathaniel Hawthorne's wife so edited and censored the writer's notebooks as to misrepresent his character by "prudishness or false delicacy."

In a book just published, Prof. Stewart makes comparison of the original manuscripts of the Hawthorne notebooks now in the Pierpont Morgan library with the notebooks published by Mrs. Hawthorne. The comparison discloses, he says, that not only were significant portions omitted, but that Mrs. Hawthorne "also revised the notebooks to such an extent that the published version, seriously misrepresents his character and literary genius."

Mrs. Hawthorne, the professor says, made a large number of revisions because of her "prudishness or false delicacy." Others were made in an attempt to obtain social and literary elegance, while passages relating to sex were revised or omitted entirely.

Examples of changes listed by Stewart include: "Mischievous of a Brunette" for "devil of a brunette." "Very quick-tempered" for "quick-tempered as the devil." "Shop" for "Store." "Trousers" for "Pantaloons" and "Tea time" for "Supper time." Prof. Stewart says: "Incidents revealing Hawthorne's natural indolence—as when he throws the fish back into the river to avoid the trouble of cleaning them, or allows his wife to rake the leaves in the avenue—and his frank avowals of indolence—as when he exclaims, 'I hate all labor, but less that of the hands than of the head.'—were either omitted or recorded with important modifications. Changes such as these not only misrepresent the man; they subtract from his humanity."

"Again, there are editorial tamperings, the most unscrupulous of all, which affect the view of life presented in the notebooks. The editor (Mrs. Hawthorne) set about removing any suggestions of cynicism or pessimism."

"After giving a good-natured description of the mutual endearments of a newly married couple whom he saw in the stage coach in the summer of 1838, Hawthorne observed: "It would be pleasant to meet them next summer, and note the change." This mildly cynical remark was not allowed to stand. "In another passage Hawthorne spoke with some boldness of the 'justice' of our existence; the revised text reads 'Apparent injustice.'"

"Finally editorial alterations include the omission of significant passages which bear on Hawthorne's religious views, which were excluded because of their heterodoxy."

Hawthorne, author of "The Scarlet Letter," "The House of Seven Gables," etc., was born in Salem, Mass., in 1804. In July, 1841, he married Elizabeth Peabody, of an old Salem family like his own. He died in 1864.

WOULD WIDEN THIRD ST. IN DOWNTOWN DISTRICT

Brooks Announces Plan for Improvement from Washington to Walnut.

A plan for widening Third street for eight blocks, between Washington avenue and widened Walnut street, including the acquisition by the city of the old Custom House at Third and Olive streets, will be initiated by Director of Streets and Sewers Brooks.

Brooks returned today from a business trip to Washington. While there he consulted the Treasury about the Custom House, which fronts 110 feet on the east side of Third but which the Government probably will not need after completion of the new Federal Building. The proposed widening would take land of varying width from the east side of the street, but the city cannot condemn Federal property.

At the suggestion of the Treasury, Brooks will ask Congressman Cochran to introduce a bill in Congress to sell the property to the city, at a price to be determined, provided the widening is carried out. At the same time, Brooks will recommend to the Board of Public Service a condemnation ordinance for the widening, with a clause covering the purchase.

Third street, now of varying width, would be made at least 80 feet wide. Because of the steep grade to the east of it, property as far east as the alley probably would be needed to make fills between Vine and Chestnut streets. This includes the Custom House site, 120 feet deep. The street construction might consist of two 30-foot roadways, separated by a terrace. Brooks said he did not contemplate abandoning the scheme for widening Third street farther north and south and giving it a double-deck highway. He thinks some arrangement should be made soon, however, to assure acquisition of the Custom House site.

Man, 83, Overcome by Gas.

Henry Andrich, 83 years old, is in serious condition at City Hospital after being overcome by gas yesterday at his home, 2711 Tennessee avenue. Police called by neighbors found Andrich leaning over a stove on which two burners were open but unlighted. His head was covered with a quilt. He was unable to make a statement.

Make $1 go as far as $3 when fighting those stubborn colds

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC is 3 times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. Hence it goes 3 times as far. And whether you buy the 25c, 50c, or $1 size, you still get 3 times as much for your money.

YOU may be trying to save money. But instead of saving it, you're losing it if you don't know the difference between the two kinds of mouth antiseptics on the market. One kind must be used full strength to be effective—that means "if you add water, it won't kill germs."

Pepsodent CAN be diluted

But the other kind—Pepsodent Antiseptic—is powerful enough to be diluted with 2 parts of water and still kill germs in less than 10 seconds—yet Pepsodent is absolutely safe when used full strength. Pepsodent Antiseptic is at least three times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. Hence it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money—and gives you extra protection against stubborn sore throat colds, unpleasant breath, and all kinds of germ infections.

Be safe—and save money!

When choosing your mouth antiseptic, be sure you choose the one that, even when it is diluted with water, still kills germs! The other kind costs more . . . either in money or in health. Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic—and be safe!

GENEVA PARLEY REOPENS WITH U. S. DEMANDING ACTION

American Delegation Holds German Equality and French Security Claims Are Not Paramount.

FOR DISARMAMENT PURE AND SIMPLE

Japan on Hand as Spectator—Its Representative Arranges Conference With Norman Davis.

GENEVA, Dec. 5.—The four big powers of Europe and the United States get out today to make definite progress toward world disarmament before Christmas, with an American warning that mere "window-dressing" would not be satisfactory.

The American delegation also made it plain that it understood the situation with the understanding that the basis of the proceedings was "disarmament, pure and simple." The Americans said the question of equality, raised by Germany last summer when she withdrew from the conference, and security, a paramount issue with France, were not to be fundamentals of the negotiations.

Originally the meeting was called for the announced purpose of getting Germany back into the conference, but the American statement would indicate that the talks were going beyond the announced intention.

The remaining nation of the world's "big six"—because also was an interested spectator. During the week-end, its representative, Tameo Matsudaira, and Norman Davis, the American delegate, arranged a conference for today, presumably to discuss the Japanese naval disarmament plan which was launched recently. It differs in many respects from the British and American ideas.

Fully accredited diplomats from the five nations participating in the conversations were on hand in route this morning. They included Davis, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain, Premier Edouard Herriot of France, Foreign Minister Baron Konstantin von Neurath of Germany, and Augusto Rosso, Italy's ambassador.

The first conversations began Saturday, but were confined to preliminary business because of the absence of Baron von Neurath, who was detained in Berlin during the cabinet crisis there. He will get the German Capital yesterday.

The American delegation spent the day getting preliminary ideas for an arms convention down on paper, and it was understood that the "big five" did the same thing.

STUDY DEEP-SEA MONSTERS' METHODS OF COMMUNICATION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—A study of the communication methods of monsters of the ocean depths will be the objective of an expedition announced today by the Smithsonian Institution.

The expedition will grapple five miles under the Atlantic for creatures that live there under pressure and land-dweller could withstand. It is the darkest of the deep, and the expedition will sail about Jan. 1 on the yacht Caroline, owned by George R. Johnson of Philadelphia, and will be in charge of Dr. Paul Bartsch of the Smithsonian Institution.

Scientists and apparatus also will be furnished by the Navy, the Carnegie Institution, the New York Zoological Society and the Oceanographic Institution of Woods Hole, Mass. Traps equipped with lights of different colors and intensities will be lowered miles under the water to learn which best attracts the deep-sea animals.

RECONSTRUCTION CORPORATION ASKED TO ASSIST HOSPITALS

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—The American Hospital Association, through its secretary, Dr. Bert Caldwell, appealed yesterday for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to extend aid to hospitals over the nation receiving help from tax sources and to prevent further accommodation of patients, and to prevent the closing of hospitals because of lack of funds.

Dr. Caldwell said there were hospitals of the association in every large city and that they were crowded and supported by philanthropic organizations and individuals.

CHRONIC UNEMPLOYMENT AN INDICTMENT OF OUR CIVILIZATION, DOAK SAYS

New Industrial Concept Seems to Be Required, With Safeguards for the Wage Earner, Secretary of Labor Writes.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 201-205 Kellogg Building, WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The severity of the unemployment problem is dealt with in the annual report issued today by Secretary of Labor W. N. Doak, who says: "These recurring periods of unemployment seem to me to be an indictment of our civilization." The report recounts efforts of the Government to improve the situation of the wage earners, who, with their families, are said to constitute "the chief buying power of the land." The wage earner is defined as the one on whom "the pressure of weight falls first," and consequently as the greatest sufferer.

It follows, the report states, that with the great number now unemployed, the purchasing power of our people has been drastically curtailed, thus checking the flow of the streams into the channels of trade, reducing the products of manufacturers and the consumption of the products of the farm. "The finding of means to better this condition is taxing the minds of all our people and the energies of our nation," the National Government has bent itself to the work of aiding in every way possible the saving of work opportunities and the employment of the unemployed.

It is said that in seeking a solution, "a new industrial concept appears to be demanded, one which will make such times as we have been passing through impossible or exceedingly rare in the future. The wage earner should be safeguarded, and whether this will be brought about by a reduced work week with a consequent spread of employment, accompanied by some universal system of unemployment insurance, or otherwise, is an immediate problem, but there is every reason to believe that the solving and removal of these recurring cycles of unemployment will be impossible to an enlightened and aroused nation."

Mention is made that "one of our states (Wisconsin) has enacted an unemployment insurance law, the first in the history of the country, and its operation will be watched with great interest."

The depth of the unemployment problem is reflected in a discussion of the increase of efficiency in industrial production and the conclusion is stated that a return to "normal" will not in itself put all the people back to work. The report says:

"Aside from the abnormal amount of unemployment occasioned by the financial and economic depression, a matter of grave concern is the ability of our major industries to produce in much less time than a year more goods and products than the purchasing power of the country can absorb; which, of course, occasions a vast amount of part-time employment."

"This situation will remain, even when normal conditions return, unless and until we are able to devise a solution or adjustment of the attendant problems; such as the absorption of the surplus of commodities or a decrease in production commensurate with the country's demands; with either the employment of released labor elsewhere or reduced hours or days of work so as to spread employment over a greater number of workers."

"The development of markets, the easier and cheaper distribution of our products, the maintenance of wages at scales which will permit and induce purchases beyond actual needs of subsistence and housing will all assuage this condition. The necessity confronts the country to solve these problems with as little delay as possible, as it is a truism that a high standard of wages is necessary for a resumption of commodity purchases on a large scale—what we vitally need."

For Restricted Immigration. The activity of the Department of Labor in enforcing the restrictive immigration laws and in deporting aliens unlawfully in this country are referred to as of benefit. The number of immigrants received in the fiscal year, which ended last June 30, was 35,576, the smallest number in over 100 years.

This compares with more than 1,000,000 a year about 25 years ago. Secretary Doak points out that this restriction of immigration, which he recommends should be continued, together with the deportation of 19,426 in the year, reduced the competition of foreigners for the available jobs.

As to the future of immigration, Secretary Doak says that "mature consideration of our condition leads me to believe that the country will not likely again be in a condition to absorb successfully a similarly vast number of aliens as were allowed to enter until a few years ago. I believe that in the development of our resources and the natural increase in the present population we have approached or reached the stage when the facilities and opportunities of employment will not exceed our supply of workers at home."

He suggested further revision of the law so that the Department of Labor could say in advance when or how many aliens of various occupations should be admitted, so as to guard against the arrival of persons not needed.

Employment of Women. Employment of women in one phase of the problem discussed in the report. The number gainfully employed in 1930 was 11,000,000 and the report remarks that "it is significant that this number is about equal to what is assumed to be the total of unemployed workers in the country today."

As to married women who have jobs, it is said they should not be discharged indiscriminately simply because they are married and in order to make a place for single women or men, it is pointed out that in many cases their earnings are necessary to support the family because of the partial or total unemployment of the husband.

The problem of children employed in industry also is discussed. It is said that in 1930 there were 235,328 children less than 14 years old gainfully employed. At the same time there were 1,260,000 children from 7 to 15 years old who were not attending school.

OLD TESTAMENT ATTACKED BY GEN. VON LUDENDORFF

"Jewish Gospel, Full of Deadly Peril to the German State," He Says.

By the Associated Press. BRUSSELS, Dec. 5.—The Old Testament was attacked by Gen. Erich von Ludendorff, military associate of Field Marshal von Hindenburg during the World War, who addressed a large audience in the Neue Welt assembly hall here.

The occasion was a meeting of his "Tannenberg Bund," which was founded in 1926 and which includes worshippers of the ancient gods.

Gen. von Ludendorff asserted that the Old Testament was "a Jewish gospel, full of deadly peril to the German State."

"The Jehovah's commandments, to fulfill which the Jews and Roman Catholics are vying with each other," he said, "justify political and private robbery and enslavement, yet at the same time a part of the Christian doctrine."

The 67-year-old militarist continued that Germans must find strength to throw this doctrine overboard and follow a religion "akin to our blood, and reconcilable with science and with freedom as our ultimate salvation."

Ludendorff expressly disclaimed any intention of attacking Christianity specifically.

ILEANA'S PLANE FORCED DOWN

BUCHAREST, Dec. 5.—Archduke Anton and Princess Ileana narrowly escaped injury today when their plane made a forced landing near Turnseverin because of motor trouble.

The Archduke and Princess were flying from here to Belgrade to visit King Alexander and Queen Marie. They continued their journey by railway, arriving at Belgrade this morning.

SOVIET LEADERS ALTER SYSTEM OF FOOD DISTRIBUTION

Decree Directs Individual Factories to Look After Workers, Taking Over Co-Operative Stores.

SHOPS TO HANDLE CLOTHING ALSO

Managers to Issue Ration Cards to Employes and Families—Aim Is to Penalize Deserters.

By the Associated Press. MOSCOW, Dec. 5.—A fundamental change in the system of feeding and clothing the bulk of the population of Russia was ordered today by Joseph Stalin and V. M. Molotov, president of the Union Council of the People's Commissars. The change provides for decentralization of the distribution of supplies.

A decree effective Jan. 1 places the control of distribution of all foods, manufactured goods, and other supplies in the hands of individual factories, industries and enterprises.

The decree is designed to improve the distribution of supplies and to increase the discipline of workers.

The new order, in effect, relieves the Government of most of the responsibility for feeding and clothing the workers and places it on the workers themselves. It provides that all factories and institutions take over the co-operative stores that are now the chief source of supplies and that thus far have been the Government's sole distributing channel.

These stores henceforth will be operated as definite units in various enterprises under the administrative direction of each factory and department head. The factories and other establishments obtain their own ration cards to employees and their families. This will keep shifters and deserters from taking advantage of supplies intended for workers in good standing.

Up to now ration cards have been distributed exclusively by house committees which administer all the houses in which workers reside.

Penalization of Farmer. A sharp warning to peasants against grain hoarding was issued by the Soviet newspapers, Izvestia and Pravda, simultaneously with disclosure of stiff sentences for the hoarding of a Government grain collector.

A kulak, or well-to-do farmer, was sentenced to death and his wife to 10 years' imprisonment for the killing. The Government agent went to the village Belokolodsk in Moscow Province to collect grain. The latter attacked the president of the village Soviet and shot the agent. A village doctor who refused to treat the wounded official was sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment.

The newspapers took cognizance of the possibility of widespread hoarding. They admitted that the Government's grain collectors as a whole are "unsatisfactory" and said that such important producing regions as the Ukraine and Volga are still much behind.

FORMER PRESIDENT OF BRAZIL SAILS FOR EXILE IN PORTUGAL

His Son Is Reported Shot During Disturbance as Ship Departs.

By the Associated Press. RIO DE JANEIRO, Dec. 5.—Former President Arthur da Silva Bernardes yesterday boarded the steamer Asturias for Portugal, whether he has been sent into exile. Ten weeks ago he was captured while hiding alone in a cabin in the Minas Geras forest following an abortive uprising in behalf of Paulista rebels.

Several shots were fired in a crowd just before the ship departed and the son of Bernardes was reported shot in the leg. A group jeered and threw stones at the former President and this started the shooting. Several persons were injured in a panic which ensued, but order was restored quickly.

Belgian Election Results. By the Associated Press. BRUSSELS, Dec. 5.—Increased Socialist and Catholic strength in the Belgian Senate as well as the Chamber was indicated today as results came in from Sunday's provincial elections. The Senate gains were at the expense of the Liberals and Flemish Extremists. The figures showed the Socialists gained 16 seats and the Catholics 13, while the Liberals lost 26 and the Flemish Extremists seven. The provincial councilors chosen yesterday will elect 44 members of the Senate.

H. G. Wells Writes a Credo for Revolutionary Spirits Everywhere, But Admits It Is Not Perfect

Organization Needed to Rescue World From Private Profit-Seeking, by Developing Collective Enterprises, But He Thinks Single Movement Impracticable.

By H. G. WELLS. Famous Author and Philosopher, Who Wrote "The Outline of History" and Many Other Noted Works.

HERE IS, I believe, a great and growing stir in the minds of men to fight the somber destiny that hangs over humanity. The gathering distrust of our race, the unrelieved threat of war and the lassitude of governments are rousing a spirit which is in its essence revolutionary.

Some of us who associate barricades in the street, crowd violence and the butchering of defeated rulers with the word "revolution" may prefer to say "reconstruction."

Whichever word they use, the reality remains that the will for change is growing as swiftly as summer thunder, and that many existing arrangements and institutions, from national sovereignty to the private sovereignty of industrial and financial concerns, are threatened.

The majority of mankind is living in want and anxiety in the midst of such plenty as was never possible before: in danger and in fear, in the face of potential order and security.

As the realization of this spreads throughout the world, impatience and revolt must increase and the struggle for a better governance, become more and more acute.

Gathering Revolt Against World as It Is. Now this gathering revolt against the world as it is, is expressing itself in a multiplicity of forms. There is no one simple revolutionary movement. We have in Great Britain various Liberal and Labour organizations, a multitude of Socialist initiatives, the Communists and so forth, all seeking to change the world for the greater happiness of mankind, and incidentally doing their utmost to hinder and discredit each other's effort.

The same confusion and waste of progressive effort appears in every country to which we turn. The aim to make the world anew and nearer the heart's desire of mankind is universal, but the methods are generally local, sectarian, hysterical, partisan and confused.

The forces of protest and reconstruction are, in the aggregate, enormous, but they neutralize each other. The world is being beaten in detail by the forces of reaction. They seem unable even to arrest the creeping approach of another war in Europe.

They misunderstand each other obstinately. They misunderstand themselves. Could we rally them now, not necessarily to organized unity, but to a world-wide co-operation toward a clearly defined end, we might, I believe, count this the year one of a new world.

Seeks to Harmonize Divergent Opinions.

Now it seems to me that the necessary first step toward such a creative rally would be a statement of the aims upon which all liberal-minded and socially-constructive men throughout the world can agree.

Without such a plain statement, revolutionary action can never be constructively organized. It will degenerate into hysterical destructiveness. It will drive over masses of potential helpers toward repression. The new world will not dawn.

But is such a statement, such a fundamental creed possible? I believe it is. I believe a common creed of progress can be formulated now and I believe an immense economy and accession of creative power would ensue.

For the last few months I have been studying all sorts of progressive and revolutionary plans and products and trying over a series of drafts to embody sweepingly, but clearly and definitely, just what should be the essential drive of effort at the present time.

I have been asking what we of the Left want and trying to work out the greatest common denominator of the whole. The agreement upon realities I find immense; the differences are differences of sentiment, feeling, strategy and suspicion.

Universal System of Money and Credit, Peace, Modernized Education and Free Speech, Features of Remedy Which He Offers for All to Debate and Revise.

States Five Objectives as a Common Basis.

But first let me state what I believe are the common objectives of progressive world effort:

I. The scientific development of the actual and potential resources of the world and the distribution of the resulting wealth to provide the fullest and most vigorous life possible for the whole species. This necessarily involves:

1. The progressive replacement of production for private profit by collective production, and with this the development of a competent direction for collective enterprise as rapidly as it can be organized.

II. The establishment of a world system of money and credit that will insure a practical steadiness of purchasing power, in the money earned by the worker and guard the community against the aggravation and persistence of debt.

III. The organization of a world peace to end war, secure the disappearance of armaments and the complete suppression of the private manufacture of weapons and the progressive abrogation of national sovereignty in favor of world control.

IV. The modernization of education throughout the world so as to insure to every human being the necessary knowledge and ideas and the necessary habit of service, for conscious, willing and competent co-operation in the human common weal.

V. The establishment and preservation of free speech, free publication and the right of free movement throughout the world.

No One Movement Will Do, Wells Thinks.

Is that what we want or is it not? It is no answer to flick at objectives at that statement and say that it is utopian, remote, idealistic and so forth.

A man who is famishing in a desert wants food and drink and it does not help him to say that such a desire is utopian, remote, etc., and to offer him, as a practical man, a nice handful of sand.

However desperate it is, the only rational course before him is to try to get food and drink before he perishes.

And is there anything else wrong with that general statement? I think you will find it covers the whole field of progressive effort. And next to strategy. How are we to get towards these aims?

VON SCHLEICHER CABINET ASSUMES REINS IN GERMANY

Divided Parliament Convenes Tomorrow—New Chancellor Has Power to Dissolve It.

By the Associated Press. BERLIN, Dec. 5.—Chancellor von Schleicher and his Cabinet took over the reins of Government today and prepared to face the hopelessly divided Reichstag when it convenes tomorrow.

Like Chancellor von Papen whom he succeeded, Chancellor von Schleicher has the authority from President von Hindenburg to dissolve the Reichstag if necessary to save his Government.

The Von Schleicher Cabinet was announced as a "Cabinet of conciliation," but is virtually the same as the Von Papen Junker Cabinet which resigned after a stormy period. Von Papen is out. Von Schleicher, in addition to being Chancellor, continues to hold his old post as Minister of Defense—head of the Reichswehr. The new member is Dr. Friedrich Syrup, Minister of Labor. The others are: Foreign Affairs, Baron Konstantin von Neurath; Interior, Franz Bracht; Finance, Count Lutz Schwerin von Krosigk; Defense (temporary), Von Schleicher; Justice, Franz Guertner; Transportation and Posts, Baron Elts von Ruebenach; Economics, Dr. Herman Warmbold; Agriculture and Eastern Relief, Baron Friedrich Eder von Brauer; Minister Without Portfolio, H. Johannes Popitz.

Despite Adolf Hitler's intensive personal campaign, a 20 per cent decrease appeared in the vote polled in communal and district elections in the National Socialist stronghold of Thuringia yesterday. While the National Socialists substantially increased their mandates in most centers as compared with the last communal elections of 1928, their actual vote dropped by one-quarter compared with the Nov. 6 Reichstag election.

In Weimar the Nazis lost 3881 votes, in Dec. 27/31, in Gotha 2481, in Jena 2171 and in Eisenach 2016. The greatest vote losses for the National Socialists, as compared with the Nov. 6 election, were 48 per cent in Ilmenau and 30 per cent in Apolda, but they obtained more seats in both towns than in 1928. Other parties registered correspondingly lower totals, with the Communists scoring a relative gain at the expense of the Social Democrats.

TROTSKY BARRED BY BELGIUM

Police Meet Steamer When It Stops at Antwerp.

ANTWERP, Belgium, Dec. 5.—Many detectives and police were on hand early yesterday, when the steamer Bernadoff arrived, with instructions to see that Leon Trotsky, exiled Russian revolutionary, did not go ashore.

Trotsky, returning to Prinkipo Island, near Istanbul, after delivering a lecture in Copenhagen, remained aboard the ship during its call here. The Bernadoff stops next at Dunkirk, France.

ALL GENERALS IN CHILEAN ARMY OFFER RESIGNATIONS
Say They Want President-elect to Have Free Hand in Reorganization.
SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 5.—All Generals of the Chilean Army presented their resignations yesterday with a statement declaring they wished President-elect Arturo Alessandri to have freedom of action in reorganizing the military service.

The Generals, seven in all, presented a report to the Government on activities of high officials in different military movements this year. The commander-in-chief said the committee suggested that several officers be eliminated because of their tendency to participate in activities alien to the military profession.

Military leaders participated in the revolts of June and September in Chile and were reported again active in recent political movements. The three months' Socialist Government under Carlos Davila was sponsored by military leaders, who held power until the Oyanedel civilian Government was established shortly before the Oct. 30 election.

A Stopped-up Nose —

may start the MOUTH BREATHING HABIT
When a cold causes your child to breathe through his mouth instead of his nose, beware of the deadly mouth breathing habit.
The nose filters out the deadly germs that enter with each breath, but the mouth cannot. During mouth breathing these germs invade the lungs and undermine vitality. Body and mind are stunted. The child is dull in school. The unnatural breathing distorts his mouth.

Take no chances! Keep the nostrils open by inserting Mentholum night and morning. This soothing ointment clears the nasal passages and promotes natural nose breathing.

Brushes Away Gray Hair Keeps Permanent Wave

Now you can really look years younger. Simply brush away those unsightly streaks or patches of gray. It is so easy to do—and at home—with Brownstone. Over 20 years of success recommend this proved method. With an ordinary small brush you just tint your hair back to its natural shade—whether blonde, brown or black. Guaranteed harmless. Active coloring agent is purely vegetable. Does not coat the surface. Actually penetrates the hair. Defies detection. No tangle, flat "dye" look. Cannot affect waving of hair.
No need to guess. First cut a lock of hair from your head and apply a little of this famous tint. If Brownstone does not give you gray, streaked, dull, or faded hair its natural color, youth and sheen, your money back. Only 50c.

H. G. WELLS WRITES CREDO FOR THE REVOLUTIONARY SPIRIT

Here also I submit certain general propositions that have also been most carefully criticized and revised, as a strategy of progressive world effort:

I. In the present multifarious complexity of human affairs it is impracticable to attempt to achieve the objects already stated by one single creative revolutionary organization. It is necessary to marshal a great variety of forces and prepare for a great variety of activities.

II. One powerful drive towards the new world is to be found in the organization of the natural resentment of the disinherited masses. This is what is known as the class war. It may supply immense driving force towards the reconstruction of human affairs, but as the objectives of the revolutionary world effort are approached the class war will diminish and finally disappear in the achievement of a classless society.

III. Equally important already is that passion for achievement and righteousness that leads human beings to devote themselves to the studied replanning of social functions, production, distribution, education, science and the like. This motive is potentially as powerful in most human beings as the drive for monetary gain.

Would Rescue World From Private Profit-Seeking.

The creative motive demands organization to rescue the world from private profit-seeking. The instinctive realization of this necessity already finds expression in a variety of more or less disciplined and instructed associations from the Communist party to the various Fascist associations.

There is no reason for an artificial and possibly entangling unification so long as they are all in agreement as to the objectives of progressive effort already stated.

Here I submit is a common basis and a common strategy on which all the progressive movements of the earth could agree at the present time.

It excludes all personal devotion royalists, nationalists, militarists, economic and financial individualists and, indeed, every type of reactionary.

It will oblige the intelligent Communist to think, and the reactionary Communist to blaspheme and show his essentially reactionary quality. It is as acceptable to an intelligent man or woman in China or Chile as it is in Moscow or Glasgow.

It supplies a criterion by which all contemporary politics can be judged and a general statement of direction to which every movement should be oriented.

So at least it appears to me. I publish this report on what I have talked out with a very varied selection of people. It is my attempt to record the progressive movement up to date.

It may need extensions or qualifications that I do not realize. It so let me hammer it out again. Let it have appendices and footnotes, so long as they do not smother it. Let it be rewritten so long as it is not rewritten out of sight.

But of the urgent necessity at the present time for such a compact credo, that can go into all languages and supply a common basis of action and reference, I am profoundly convinced.

ACTRESS ENDS LIFE IN SEINE

Marcelle Romee Had Abandoned Career Due to Illness.
By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Dec. 5.—Marcelle Arberd, known on the stage and screen as Marcelle Romee, who abandoned a career in the Comedie Francaise a year ago because of her health, is thought by police to have committed suicide by throwing herself into the Seine. She was 29 years old.
It was said she had suffered a nervous breakdown and had been staying in a private hospital from which she disappeared Saturday. One person reported to police having seen a woman throw herself into the river after leaving some of her clothes on the shore. The body was recovered and authorities identified the victim as the actress.

KILLED WHEN RACING PLANE HITS HANGAR AND BURNS

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 5.—Lieut. Frank J. Lynch of Summit, N. J., was killed here yesterday when the racing plane he was flying crashed into the roof of the main hangar at Bowles Agawam Airport and was destroyed by fire. Lynch's body was burned.

Witnesses said Lynch just missed hitting parked automobiles as the plane got off the ground and he apparently tried desperately to lift the plane over the hangar.

The craft, designed by Robert L. Hall, had been flown to the National Air Races in September by Lynch, although not entered in any events.
Lynch was 43 years old and had once been a movie stunt pilot on the West coast. In the World War he was an army instructor. He leaves a widow and two children.

JAPAN SOUNDS OUT SOVIET RUSSIA ON MARCH TO BORDER

Advance Into Northwest Manchuria Reaches Point 75 Miles From Manchuli on Frontier.

By the Associated Press.
TOKIO, Dec. 5.—The Japanese advance into northwestern Manchuria reached a point 75 miles from the Soviet border today and Tokio has begun to sound out Russia on the Russian attitude in the event that Japanese troops push on to Manchuli on the border.

The Foreign office here disclosed that Elji Amoh, Japanese Charge d'Affaires at Moscow, had approached Foreign Commissar L. M. Karakhan, saying that it was necessary for the Japanese army to attack the Chinese insurgent, Gen. Su Ping-wen at Manchuli. Gen. Su has been holding about a fourth of northwestern Manchuria in defiance of the Japanese and has been holding more than 100 Japanese hostages.

The Japanese Charge also told Karakhan that it would be necessary to use the western division of the Chinese Eastern Railway over which Russia has partial authority. Karakhan also was informed that the Japanese policy was not to injure the Chinese Eastern Railway, and repair all damage resulting from Japanese operation.

Karakhan told Amoh that he would have to have time to consult his Government before discussing the situation further. That was on Dec. 2.

The Government was without information today as to what Russia would do in the event Gen. Su and his followers attempt to flee into Siberia.

Dispatches from Tientsin, base of Japanese operations in the northwest, said the Japanese expedition had taken strategic Shedin Pass and was advancing through the Khingan Mountains toward Hailar, the Chinese forces having fled.

The Japanese crossed the Khingan divide Saturday afternoon and continued without opposition down the western slope. Bombing of Hailar from the air seemed thoroughly to have demoralized Gen. Su's men, so that the Shedin tunnel, a few miles west of Pokutu, easily fell into Japanese hands.

The Japanese advance continued day and night, despite a temperature of 40 degrees below zero. Engineers on the trains were forced to make frequent stops to repair broken rails, spread by the intense cold.

Silent thousands crowded the pier at Kobe in the rain this morning to greet the steamer Ural Maru, which brought back the bodies of 224 soldiers of the Matsui Division slain in fighting north of Tientsin in October and November. Special trains and military escorts carried the bodies home in the Utsunomiya district, the base of the Matsui Division.

Japanese Report Says Gen. Su Has Fled Into Russian Territory.
TSITSIHAR, Manchuria, Dec. 5.—The Rengo (Japanese) News Agency correspondent reported today he had information that Gen. Su Ping-wen, Chinese insurgent, had entered Soviet territory by train Sunday night. There were no details.

Japanese headquarters here was still awaiting news today of the expected occupation by Japanese forces of Hailar, 85 miles from Manchuli, on the Soviet border. The latest bulletin, however, said the vanguard was still 37 miles east of Hailar, where air scouts reported that "smoke columns were rising."

Only one skirmish with the Chinese was reported during the passage of the Khingan Mountains.

CHICAGO GARAGE MAN SLAIN IN MICHIGAN AV. BUILDING

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—While accepting a robbery theory, police sought other possible motives for the slaying of Joseph Grauer, 37 years old, in the Michigan avenue automobile showroom he operated with his brother.

Grauer, with a bullet through his left temple, was found dead on the floor of the place yesterday afternoon. A few feet away crowds passed by on Michigan avenue unmindful of what had taken place.

Philip Grauer, the brother, told police he and Ted Smith had been with his brother most of the afternoon at the showroom and had left him there alone a little more than an hour before the body was found by a mechanic. The pockets had been turned out.

Police also were told that an unidentified Negro under the influence of liquor entered the place.

They said it was possible he was seeking charity and, being refused aid, had returned later to stage a holdup.

By W. J. McGoogan.

With four victories in seven games, the St. Louis Flyers today held undisputed position as the first place team in the American Hockey League with a total of 8 points, two points ahead of Kansas City.

The Flyers go to Kansas City for a game Wednesday, then do not play again until Wednesday, Dec. 14, when they meet Kansas City at the arena.

All of the St. Louis victories have been scored by one point in overtime contests and they lost one the same way. In all of their triumphs they have come from behind to win.

McPherson, little center, who is off to a flying start for scoring honors, made it three victories in a row for the Flyers at the arena last night when he poked the disc past "Goat" Timmins after three minutes of the overtime period, to beat St. Paul 4 to 3. It was the second game in succession which McPherson finished in this manner, for he scored the winning tally at Duluth last Friday night.

The Flyers richly deserved their victory for they came from behind in the final period and knot the count after very sloppy work on the part of the St. Louis defense and Goale Mike Karakas had permitted St. Paul to get in front with two goals, neither of which was earned.

St. Paul got off in the lead in the first period when, with one of its men in the penalty box, Jagunich grabbed the puck from a scramble in front of his goal and broke clear of the St. Louis players, all of whom were in the St. Paul area.

Just before the period ended another St. Paul penalty gave the Flyers a chance to tie and Gilhooly made good after a clever bit of skating around the St. Paul defense.

Just as the second period started, Lowrey got the puck beyond the St. Louis goal and, seeing he had no chance to penetrate the Flyers' defense, he looped a half-hearted shot toward the St. Louis goal. The puck went high into the air, hit on the edge as it came down and eluded Karakas' frantic effort to stop it.

Shortly afterward De Paul made a shot at the St. Louis net from a seemingly impossible angle after the St. Louis defense men apparently neglected to check him properly and Karakas again missed.

After those slips Karakas played great hockey and the St. Louis team rallied.

Flyers Forward Work Well. The forward line of McPherson, Albert Hughes and George Massacra attacked at the beginning of the third session and a clever bit of combination play gave the Flyers their second goal. Albert Hughes passed the puck to Massacra in front of the St. Paul net. Massacra faked a shot, pulled Timmins out of position, then passed to McPherson, who scored.

Huard counted the tying goal, again with clever help from his mate, Pete Palangio, who skated around the St. Paul defense, pulled Timmins out and handed the disc to Huard for an easy shot.

McPherson scored the winning marker three minutes after the start of the overtime period and again it was the clever passing of Albert Hughes and Massacra which gave him his chance.

Only 3000 Persons Attend. Although they had won two games in a row, only about 3000 persons turned out for the game.

Both forward lines participated in the scoring for the Flyers and the fans do not expect a score only when Massacra, Albert Hughes and McPherson are on the ice. Palangio and Huard team up very well and Hal Taber, the youngster, as showing to much better advantage than in the early games.

St. Louis Boy Named Army Captain

HARVEY JABLONSKY Right Guard

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 5.—Harry J. (Jabbo) Jablonsky will captain Army's 1933 football team. The 185-pound right guard was the unanimous choice of the lettermen at their annual meeting yesterday. A native of Clayton, Mo., a suburb of St. Louis, Jablonsky was a letterman in football, basketball and baseball at Washington University in St. Louis, before he was appointed to West Point in 1930.

He is an honor man at the Academy, standing close to the top of his class academically. He is a cadet corporal, the highest ranking member of his class can hold. He is 23 years old.

Former Washington Captain.

Jablonsky started his football career at Clayton High School and after his graduation matriculated at Washington U., playing on the freshman team there and making the Varsity in 1927. He was only a substitute that year but was on the first eleven in 1928, and the following year was elected captain of the Bears.

St. Louis opens also on Dec. 10 with the Kansas State five furnishing the opposition. Purdue, Arkansas Aggies, Missouri, Illinois and Rolla also are listed on the schedule. The games with the Big Ten opponents being played away from home. Drake and Grinnell of the Missouri Valley also will meet the Billikens.

Washington will meet the Billikens first on Jan. 17, the game being scheduled for the St. Louis U. Gym. A return game at the Field House is booked on Feb. 28.

Both local colleges have excellent variety material. At Washington, Captain Graves, Wile, Mautz, Marshall, Kern and Hower of last year's team are back while Broadard, Bradsby, Bickel, Taylor, Chamberlain, Enns and Maisei of this year's squad are trying for places also.

Rapp, Arenz and O'Keefe of the St. Louis U. football team will join the Billikens basketball squad after recovering from the Missouri Valley and Coach Mike Nyikos has Grann, Gorman, Frost, Wynne and Flannery of last year's variety.

Of the fine freshman team of a year ago Cochran, Brimmer, Dirksen, Hoffman, Flannigan and Cody are out for the team.

Both Nyikos and Coach Don White of Washington are regarded as excellent instructors and both have made fine records in the past few years.

BILLIKENS AND BEARS TO BEGIN BASKETBALL PLAY NEXT SATURDAY

Interesting and ambitious basketball schedules have been arranged for the 1932-1933 season by both St. Louis U. and Washington University. The two teams will meet twice in the regular season with a third to be arranged if necessary to decide the city college title. This year, Concordia Seminary has abandoned intercollegiate basketball and the Billikens and Bears will fight it out for the championship.

On the Washington schedule as at present arranged are 18 games, the first of which will be played with an Alton team next Saturday night. Ten of the games the Bears will play will be with Valley Conference teams, two each with Grinnell, Butler, Creighton, Oklahoma Aggies and Drake. The season marks the debut of Butler University in Missouri Valley competition. Missouri and the University of Chicago also will oppose the Bears here.

St. Louis opens also on Dec. 10 with the Kansas State five furnishing the opposition. Purdue, Arkansas Aggies, Missouri, Illinois and Rolla also are listed on the schedule. The games with the Big Ten opponents being played away from home. Drake and Grinnell of the Missouri Valley also will meet the Billikens.

Washington will meet the Billikens first on Jan. 17, the game being scheduled for the St. Louis U. Gym. A return game at the Field House is booked on Feb. 28.

Both local colleges have excellent variety material. At Washington, Captain Graves, Wile, Mautz, Marshall, Kern and Hower of last year's team are back while Broadard, Bradsby, Bickel, Taylor, Chamberlain, Enns and Maisei of this year's squad are trying for places also.

Rapp, Arenz and O'Keefe of the St. Louis U. football team will join the Billikens basketball squad after recovering from the Missouri Valley and Coach Mike Nyikos has Grann, Gorman, Frost, Wynne and Flannery of last year's variety.

Of the fine freshman team of a year ago Cochran, Brimmer, Dirksen, Hoffman, Flannigan and Cody are out for the team.

Both Nyikos and Coach Don White of Washington are regarded as excellent instructors and both have made fine records in the past few years.

WILLYS COLUMN

Watch His Smoke.

HUNK ANDERSON can't win the national football championship for Notre Dame this year, but he can spike the hopes of his dearest foe, the Southern California Trojans. At least, there are a great many who think he can, and who expect to see "the Irish" victors at Los Angeles next Saturday.

That would be great for Hunk. First, it would enable him to return the kick that Southern California gave his team last year at South Bend. Also, Notre Dame was a co-naturalizing itself on a safe voyage to Champlinville.

The recent game against the Army converted a lot of Notre Dame observers who had been on the fence, this season, as to the real strength of that potent force of nature known as "the Irish." That contest, repeated against Southern California, would win. There were supposed to be several hospital cases in the Notre Dame lineup against the Cadets, and now that these are all whole again the inference is that the eleven can turn on the heat still stronger next Saturday.

But, playing Southern California on its own field, in its own climate and under its own weather conditions, may prove a handicap too great for athletes who have come 2500 miles or so.

Scrambled Is Right.

BUT should the Anderson cohorts win, picture the scrambled national championship situation. Just another ring-around, we'd say. Only two major eleven have absolutely clean records, Michigan and Colgate, and they will get no chance to prove their merit against the Far West.

The Rose Bowl game, which is supposed to determine the team in the country, will, if Notre Dame wins, be between a beaten team and one that twice has been tied.

Then, should Southern California beat Pitt on Jan. 1, we should have this record: Pittsburgh defeated Notre Dame; Notre Dame defeated Southern California; Southern California defeated Pittsburgh. The old story of the three snakes trying to swallow one another.

Can't Eliminate These Teams.

IN no case can the title definitely be established by record. Michigan and Colgate undoubtedly can claim that they are entitled to consideration, even if they do say that Colgate defeated only a Grade B eleven in Brown, its strongest opponent; or that Michigan was lucky. A team that has gone through the season beating eleven like Brown, without having its goal line crossed certainly has some unusual stuff; Michigan defeated the best that could be sent against it by the Big Ten, including Ohio State, which tied Pittsburgh.

The South is trying to horn in on the title, but the tie charged against Auburn Saturday puts it out of the picture, and incidentally will no doubt end all attempt to bring together Auburn and Colgate in the proposed elimination game here.

A round-robin between Michigan, Colgate, Southern California and Notre Dame unfortunately is out of the question; but what a whale of a series that would be if it could be played! The winner of that battle would be the accepted champion without question—except in Pittsburgh.

Form Favors Trojans.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION By MARTHA CARR

Dear Mrs. Carr:
I HAVE a niece 11 years old and a nephew 14 years old, two orphans who live in the country about 100 miles from St. Louis, whose mother was killed in the Murphreeboro tornado in 1925. My sister, who lives in the country took them in to raise and have given them a good home, and with the aid of myself have supplied them with clothes and other necessities, and provided for their education. The boy graduated from the grammar school last May, but the girl is still attending and is required to walk two miles going to and two miles coming home from school every day.

The children have requested me to write you and ask you to kindly publish this letter and beg to advise, if there is any person who has longer any use for and that they would like to give away to please be kind enough and let me know. They will be very thankful to anyone donating same as they have no music of any kind and the winter nights are so long and lonesome without some kind of amusement.

I will call for the photograph if anyone cares to give it and see that it is delivered to the children if you will let me know, Mrs. Carr.
THE AUNT.

Dear Mrs. Carr:
I HAVE a winter sport coat, lined with fur, which has come very short for me and would it look all right for me to have it made into a jacket.
THANK YOU.

I think it would be far more useful and quite as smart to leave it as it is. Some of the swaggers and sports coats are three-quarter length.

Dear Mrs. Carr:
WILL you please tell me what is generally accepted as the gay season at Palm Beach? I should like to go down at the height of the season, but have only four weeks to stay.
LOIS W.

If you have but four weeks to spend there, I should advise you to go the middle of January and stay until the middle of February. The hotels do not fill up until about the second week in January and many of the villas are not opened until then, although people do go down before Christmas and remain through the season, which ends about the first of March. The largest hotels sometimes do not open until Jan. 7 or 8 and close about the last of February, depending upon the kind of season they have. The shops, many of them branches of the better New York shops, open, as a rule, not earlier than Jan. 1 and close about the middle of March. By the first of April everything is closed up except a few villas and the year-round hotels.

Dear Mrs. Carr:
I'm just a man, and you're a woman; so maybe you can tell me something. The man I room with in this part of the Oklahoma Panhandle. He picks fights, usually wins, but he often spends the night in jail. This morning I went down to see him and bailed him out. Of course, he'll pay me back, but one of these days he's going to hurt somebody.

Now, I've been telling him that he'd be better off if he paid more attention to women and less attention to dogs and men. About three years ago his mother died. Since that time he hasn't had anything to do with women. While his mother was alive, she always told him that unless he stopped drinking he'd get just like his father who was killed in a drunken brawl. From then on he stopped drinking, but nevertheless, manages to get into fights. What is it all about? Is his mother he was very even tempered, and though he drank, he never drank enough to make him drunk.

Unless I find some way of changing him, I'm going to have to give him up as a friend.
PAL.

You may have hit upon just the remedy. You might try that, or a blow on his finger tips.

Dear Mrs. Carr:
I THINK I would miss my supper, but not your wonderful column. I enjoy reading it. I think that your advice gives many lessons to us young girls.

Mrs. Carr, a girl in the office where I work, said that if young girls would stay out of politics, men would have more respect for them. But I think that if most of the girls would quit drinking and smoking men would think more of them. I think that any man would rather hear a girl say, "I am going to vote," than to hear her say, "have you a cigarette?" or "let's have a highball."

Maybe girls think I am an old-fashioned girl, but I am not. I am

See if You Can Correctly Answer These Questions

AUTHOR'S NOTE: These answers are given from the scientific point of view. Not all moral questions can be answered with absolute scientific accuracy, but no decision as to what is morally right is possible without science. Science puts the rights of organized society above the rights of individuals.

1. Provided parents, grandparents and great-grandparents are as healthy as the average the answer is No. If much insanity, feeble-mindedness, tuberculosis, epilepsy or other inherited defect is prevalent in close ancestry, the answer is Yes. Cousins desiring to marry should submit careful family histories on both sides to some biologist.
2. The notion that "This is a free country and every one has a right to his own opinion," is chiefly what keeps us from being a free country. Nobody has a right to an opinion unless he has definite and reasonably complete knowledge of the facts. The answer is therefore No.
3. No. Mere practice does not make perfect because you practice the things you do wrong as well as the things you do right. Many people never improve at bridge, or golf, or in the more serious affairs of life, because they continue to practice their errors.

To Ourselves.

It does not matter much what people say about us, irritating as it sometimes is. If they are not talking about us, they are not talking about someone else. A whispering campaign of some kind is always going on. Of more importance is what we say, or do not say, about others, in that it reveals what we are. At times a silence on our part can be more cruel than a cutting bit of gossip.

No, what really matters, and often determines all the rest, is what we say to ourselves, and about ourselves, in the secret place of our own soul. It is this inner conversation, this private gossip, that counts, as regards both our happiness and usefulness in life. Often we say of a friend, "He is in a state of mind," and we go to "talk him out of it." How did he get that way? He talked himself into it. Perhaps without realizing what he was doing. In the back of his own mind he kept saying a sad or cynical thing about himself, until at last he came to believe it.

Let a man begin to say to himself in the solitude of his own mind: What is the use, anyway? What difference does it make? What is it all about? Is the game worth the candle? Is it worth while? The world is against me. If I can get by with it, why not? Such self-cynicism does things to us. It is like taking a dose of slow poison. For, as a man habitually talks to himself, so he is before he is aware of it. Such talk has a strange hypnotic power, because it appeals to our tendency to recline, to shine, to whine, which is deep down in us.

All of us know how easy it is to fall into debilitating talk with ourselves, in a dismal mood of depression, when we feel as worthless as a run-down shoe at a rummage sale. Or it may Confidential Talks With Mothers and Fathers.

by Alice Judson Peale

THE REV. J. F. NEWTON.

Not a Child's Hero
GEORGE WASHINGTON undoubtedly would be a greater hero to children of our nation were it not for the fact that stories about him state and restate that "he could not tell a lie."

The idea is appealing to many children whose own secret records of lies told to get an ice cream cone, to escape a state duty, to avert parental wrath, rise up before them. The child too many times had fallen from the spotless virtue which seemed necessary to become such a hero as Washington.

With relief the child learns that Lincoln, although history made no point of his inability to tell a lie, did play practical jokes, told funny stories and ran a grocery store that was a failure.

There was a hero to whom a child at once felt near; who was not so utterly perfect as to be a reproach to their own shortcomings. It helps children in their striving toward an ideal of behavior if those who embody their ideals are not so perfect as to be a reproach to their own shortcomings.

The parents and teachers who have the best results with children are those who quite honestly admit their ignorance and their faults. The children then feel quite rightly that the essential thing is to try honestly to be good and to work wholeheartedly.

If then one is not always good and if one's achievements do not always measure up to one's hopes, it is not a catastrophe.

A single misdeed will never make of one an outcast. One has but to face one's responsibilities and begin again.

A Few General Observations.

I HAVE concluded, for the time being, my explanation of the responses which we use when the partner has opened with a bid of one in a suit or one on a trump. Before going on to deal with opening bids of more than one and the related responses, I wish to urge my readers to 100 k through the various responses again and compare them. I want you to realize that each fits logically into its place next to its neighbor, that all the ground is pretty thoroughly covered, and that where they overlap, they leave space for individual judgment in making a selection.

This adds enormously to the interest of the game; we would not enjoy it if every situation could be infallibly analyzed to a certainty. Then, too, there are extreme fresh hands which will defeat any system created for everyday use, though I am confident that the Sims system of bidding offers greater protection against misfit freaks than the others which are used against me in tournaments.

I do not wish you to memorize all the requirements I have set forth for the various responses. This is unnecessary; they suggest themselves once the principle is clear to you and you are convinced that the methods are logical and co-ordinated. Memorize the primary trick valuations—no great effort is needed, you will agree—and study the examples analytically.

Take an old deck of cards and using up hands to illustrate the various types of holdings, both for bidding and responding, and notice how the necessary information, both negative and positive, can be exchanged.

Future articles will include examples of and comments on this phase of the bidding when hands actually played are discussed. In Contract, do not mistake mathematics for precision. Accuracy is not obtained by multiplying finicky fractional high-card values by a figure representing their average promoting power over small hands in their suit, but by counting the losers in each hand after the ground has been prepared for identifying them as such.

Duplication and Leeway—And Some Inferences.

Last week I observed a striking instance of blundering through not allowing for rather obvious duplication by applying the leeway principle when the bidding had been opened by the opponents.

West dealt and passed this hand; South opened fourth hand with one heart. West passed, waiting for the denial—which came in spades. To his surprise, East now entered the bidding with two diamonds, holding:

Sp. K x x x      D. A K Q x x
H. A Q x x      C. A K 10 x x
S. x x      T. x x x x

South passed and West bid three clubs, his opportunity for setting the opponents in a major suit having been removed. Now East, mesmerized by his apparent fit in clubs, blindly bid five clubs, which was set one trick vulnerable. He should have realized that there were, as far as he could tell, three sure losers in the hand. By bidding four clubs he would have conveyed that notion to West who, with the spades bid on his left, would then pass.

If game was to be risked, East should have tried three no trumps since North and South did not support each other's major suits and West had entered the bidding at three, although East had not been told of his own diamonds. There would have been time to revert to clubs if the no trumps were doubled. East's jack of spades would probably protect the king or queen on the opening lead if West holds a spade honor, as appears likely. Had West not liked the opening Heart bid, would he not have over-called it immediately with two clubs?

BAG that is big enough to carry a lengthy Christmas shopping list and enough money to fill it is of antique in a pouch style that is most generous. Colors preferred in this type of bag are black or brown. The frame is of matching shell. Looking inside, all kinds of clever compartments are revealed.

Among the new dress arrivals is a two-piece style smacking of early spring. The dress has two different blouses, one of a dark colored crepe to match the slender skirt, and the other of a pastel with a more formal air about it. The idea appears most practical for a busy St. Louisian with a thrifty turn of mind.

They look like festive rolling pins when you see them on the counters, and how Maggie would adore them. Rainbow tints peep out from a covering of cellophane twisted prettily at either end. But when you remove the transparent wrapper out fall a collection of dainty powder puffs.

A lamp for a little girl's room is made of porcelain from the base to the quaint poke-bonnet shade. A doll with an Alice-in-Wonderland look about her stands on guard to see that the light never shirks in its duty. Some of these lamps are shown in a delicate rose while others are in a soft, pastel blue.

Swagger wraps of velveteen or fur are creating quite a commotion among young girls of the debutante age who like to appear in the things that are very new. These wraps are going in strongly for after-dark affairs for all their swanky appearance. The velveteen ones are liked in the jewel tones, and among fur favorites is the knee-length coat of white lapin. They are cut loose from the shoulders so that they flare in a nonchalant but style-knowing manner.

My FOOD and My FIGURE

As Told to Hannah Stein
By LENORE ULRIC

"WOMEN who eat the kind of food that keeps their blood in healthy condition, and who exercise sufficiently, are not fat, as a rule," said the beautiful Lenore Ulric.

"I speak from experience. Several years ago I had to take a leave of absence from the stage because I had gone down in strength and became a case of nerves. Paradoxical as this may seem, I was ordered to go to a gym—LENORE ULRIC nasmium and exercise under supervision. Also, I was put on a diet of vegetables and fruit. I ate quantities of lettuce, cabbage, spinach, peas, carrots. These were imperative, but I could add any number of other vegetables I liked. I ate fruit at every meal. And after this treatment for several months, I had toned up so beautifully that I could go back to work, because the doctor said that my blood was in excellent condition."

"She never forgot that prescription," she always reminded how well she was, and yet was so gracefully thin, her diet, not neglected the gym.

"A bit of meat is all right every day for diversion," she said. "Not meats, though, only chicken and fish. But all this applies not to the woman who already has reached a state of obesity, but to the one who is on the border line. It is difficult to rid yourself of fat after it sets in."

She believes that the whole question of a graceful figure revolves around will power, and that, except in a few instances where it is indicative of a malignant condition, is the result of greed and over-indulgence.

"Walking produces good results as an exercise," she continued. "But one must walk such a great deal to obtain results that a half hour in the gymnasium, followed by a bath and a brisk rub, gives the same results."

A diet, she says, should not consist of tasteless food. Rather, it must be prepared in such a way as to be specially appetizing.

Perplexing Situations.

Dear Mrs. Post:
I am the president of an organization in a college. It has my practice to entertain members of this organization at a party to which I would now like to extend invitations to other members of the college. Some of these are married and I have never met their wives. Is it proper for me to invite them to the party without also inviting their wives?

Answer: If everyone else invited holds a position in the organization, it would not seem wise to go outside and invite wives in question. But if you invite other outsiders, then I think all wives of members should be invited.

My dear Mrs. Post: Several weeks ago my husband came home from the office and said we were going to be invited to the wedding of one of his business associates. As we are newcomers in town, naturally we were overjoyed. The morning we received the invitation and it was addressed to Mr. and Mrs. Should I go or not?

Answer: I don't see how you can ask for an invitation, unless the bridegroom is such an intimate friend of his that he can say so easily. "By the way, Tom, I'm sure you'll be at your wedding. My wife's name was left off the invitation. Of course it's a mistake, but we can't very well do anything about it." Then he can have a rectified—unless he forgets!

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been given to my husband a birthday party at his expense, but no mention was made of me. Should my husband go or not?

Answer: It is undoubtedly "etiquette" in which we are dealing, of course, go without (He should, however, find a first).

So if I wanted this column nothing, I had to be myself. And my column could mean to the extent of meaning. I couldn't write or wider or deeper myself. Yet something was living. And you want to do exactly what I want to do. You want to be powerful. You want to be respected and sought after by people.

But how can you make other people's lives better? You've been meekly—shy and bold—timid. Yet something is missing. You're always "click." And the result in your case as in mine.

You've offered people a bit of the thing they've never wanted a trick of fancy gestures. They only wanted you. You person—not a talker. It is in you to match what is in them. The Important Thing Is

"HAT," asks she, "the hardest thing about your column?"

The hardest thing about your column is living this column. Does that amaze you? I don't thought of column that way you? Neither I, when started writing. Like a mirage, believed were the ant thing, that could be a laugh or a cuss word. Since word the most had, and were the best thing I did, I at doing this column was a cinch.

But, like most smarties, I ended a large surplus of covered almost immediate tricks and technique. Important things in a column. Indeed, they were hard at all.

LIVING WAS THE HARD THING.

Not the words I said, but lived—that was what the reason was plain. Why did people read it? They didn't read it. They were interested in me. They read it. They were interested in the life of their own experience. It was because they wanted something for themselves. That would ease their loneliness, lighten their dullness, soothe their pain, or they read it. That's what they wanted. That's what they were looking for. And if this column, then it was a success. It held only words, then it was a wash.

So if I wanted this column nothing, I had to be myself. And my column could mean to the extent of meaning. I couldn't write or wider or deeper myself. Yet something was living. It was a question of living—that was the successful writing. And I have discovered, in the successful human condition, you're not filling space. But you're filling space. And you want to do exactly what I want to do. You want to be powerful. You want to be respected and sought after by people.

But how can you make other people's lives better? You've been meekly—shy and bold—timid. Yet something is missing. You're always "click." And the result in your case as in mine.

You've offered people a bit of the thing they've never wanted a trick of fancy gestures. They only wanted you. You person—not a talker. It is in you to match what is in them. The weak strength, the lovable weakness, the wise weakness, that is it. Match the same qualities that what people want. Your life, not your "life" is the important thing. If you want to mean something in yourself, it will be important to do exactly the extent the important in yourself.

No matter how beautiful or how cleverly you show charming with others will of high and as deep and quality of your own life.

CHAPTER SEVEN.
Just before he entered the box, Leni turned her head and saw him. A faintly discreet smile formed on her lips.
The smile said, "I'm glad you have come back to me. It is nice to have you right here, but I have not told Mr. Gates about you. I'm pretending you're a stranger till later."
Cavanaugh's imperative necessity was to tell her at once of Kruger's death. The picture on the screen was entering into its last phases.
In a few minutes Leni would be leaving the theater with Gates.

A feeling of almost childish annoyance against the man swept over Cavanaugh. He disliked the smooth, secure manner in which Gates seemed to possess Leni. He disliked the man's air of conventionalism, his carefully brushed gray hair and the pinkish roll of flesh above his collar at the back of his neck.
Cavanaugh did not enter the box but retraced his steps again to the rear of the first floor where he found an usher—this time a genuine one. Fortunately it was the same youth who had procured him the seat in the box.
"Do you think you could do me another favor this evening?" he asked the youth with his compelling touch of camaraderie.
The young man thought he could. Cavanaugh put a bank note in the lad's hand and went back to the box. Uncontentiously he found his seat. A few minutes later the usher was heading confidentially behind Douglas Gates and whispering in his ear.

"A long distance call has just come in for you, sir," he lied essentially. "The operator has switched it into the booth in the men's lounge. The party said it was very important that we get you on the phone, sir."
The usher disappeared and thereafter kept out of sight. As Gates moved up the aisle, Cavanaugh spoke to Leni in a rapid, hushed voice.
"Brace yourself for a shock," he said. His hand reached forward and closed above her elbow. "Your trouble with Kruger is all over. There was some sort of a hold-up in the front part of the theater a little while ago. Kruger was shot—accidentally. I had nothing to do with it myself."

LENI drew her breath in slowly over her teeth until her lungs were completely filled.
"Dead?"
"Yes. Don't let it rattle you. It's the break of a lifetime for you—but you deserve it."
His fingers tightened on her arm, as though to steady her. In the bad light, he could not see whether the color had left her face but her body grew taut. Her head was turned toward him and he caught the faint scent from her hair.
"It's terrible!" she uttered painfully.

"I'm hoping he didn't carry any papers that would link him up with you," Cavanaugh went on quickly. "If he did, we'll move heaven and earth to keep it quiet. Don't want you to tell a living soul about Kruger—understand? Let me handle it my own way."
It was almost too much to expect that a woman under her strain could keep a cool head, yet Leni, by sheer force of will, compelled her brain to rational behavior.
"I'll keep silent," she agreed.
"Fine! There's only one bad angle to it. I met a detective a little while ago back there. He found your handkerchief in the penthouse. It isn't important but if anybody starts asking us questions we'll simply tell the truth—leaving Kruger out of it. We didn't use a jimmy to get into the penthouse. Somebody had been there ahead of us and we merely entered through the French doors that were already open. The cops will be so excited over what happened that Mulrooney probably will forget all about the penthouse business."

Cavanaugh could feel her beginning to tremble. "How much more of this can I stand?" she asked pitifully.
"I'm sorry," he said steadily to her. "But you've got to go through with it. The worst part is over. I know you won't fall down now. Get yourself together. Show me how much heart you've got."
It was a command—a challenge and it entered into Leni's blood like strong medicine.
"Mr. Gates will be back in a minute," she said, forcing her voice to calmness.

"That's what I'm thinking about," said Cavanaugh. "We want to get rid of him—I'll take you home myself tonight." He did not add what was in his mind—that his arms ached to take her fragrant and symmetrical form into his arms once more. The seat of his desire was in his contracted heart.
"But how can we get rid of him?" asked Leni willingly.
Cavanaugh's eyes were alert and grinning.
"This is no time to stop for formalities," he told her authoritatively. "Gates will resent terribly. That side door is still open and if we hurry we'll be gone before he gets back. If he telephones, you tell him you felt faint and some friends took you home. We'll dodge around the back and pick up a taxi."

LENI did not answer him. Merely, she rose to her feet—turned her back upon the audience and moved out of the box as Cavanaugh stood aside to give her precedence.

SYNOPSIS

LENI LUNESKA, beautiful motion picture star, is embarrassed at the premiere of her latest picture when her husband, Karl Kruger, whom she thought in prison, arrives and threatens to reveal his identity unless she talks with him. Lucky Cavanaugh, a gambler, prevents Kruger from making a scene and has him placed in a private office to await Leni after the show. In the next office, thieves are burglarizing the safe. Leni goes to Kruger. He demands recognition as her husband. She refuses but he says he will wait or her to reconsider. Cavanaugh, fascinated by Leni's beauty, follows her into the box. Finding her in tears he tries to comfort her and Leni is strangely strengthened by his hand-clasp. He takes her out for some air. Forced to confide in someone, she relates her past life: slaving in a Vienna factory... marriage to Kruger when only 14... beatings... Kruger's arrest... America and her gradual rise to stardom. Unable to resist, Cavanaugh kisses her. Later he goes to Kruger and insists that he leave, but the latter is defiant. A fight ensues. Kruger draws a revolver and Cavanaugh turns out the lights. Kruger empties his gun at Lucky but misses him. Then, in a fury, Kruger rushes through the door leading into the next office, surprising the robbers at work. A tongue of flame spurts from a burglar's automatic and Kruger drops—dead. Cavanaugh slips out of the office unnoticed, but on the stairs he meets Detective Tom Mulrooney. Cavanaugh knows Mulrooney will connect him with the murder when it is discovered...

The silken curtain swished together and they stepped out through the side door into the fresher air of the arway.

Slug no longer was on guard in his inappropriate usher's uniform. However, another man was a stocky man in gray worsted suit. A man with a "biting" red mouth and eyes as blue and clear as a child's.

Cavanaugh was not a man to show surprise or disappointment in an emergency. He was a gentleman among gamblers, and a gambler among gentlemen. And in his own individual way he had more poise than the professional practitioners of either class. If he was in the least startled by the announcing presence of Detective Mulrooney no one would have suspected it. A smile lit his face—he seemed actually glad to meet the man who was quite obviously barring his path. But it was all on the surface.

"Oh, hello, Mr. Mulrooney," he said pleasantly. "I'm just taking Miss Lunesse home. Miss Lunesse, this is Tom Mulrooney, the head man of our detective force here."

Mulrooney bowed a little stiffly to Leni.
"You're perfectly right about me being head man of the detective force here," he said, "but you're wrong about just taking Miss Lunesse home. Both of you are going to spend a little time with me answering questions. We just found a safe popped open and a dead man upstairs. It must have happened while you both were in the vicinity."

Mulrooney's words struck Leni like bullets of cold ice.
"The man was suspicious—and he was on the right track. This deadly sensation spread over her as she heard the words. She was good luck Cavanaugh had held of her arm. It was the strength from his touch that supported her, that flowed into her with steady force."

"This is all ridiculous," Cavanaugh said to Mulrooney with a touch of haughtiness, "but if you insist upon annoying Miss Lunesse we are both ready to answer your questions."

THEY followed him back into the theater and up the softly carpeted steps to the tragic area behind the balcony. Cavanaugh's fingers tightened on Leni's arm.

"He's going to make you look at Kruger's body," he whispered. "Don't get upset—let me do the talking."
Leni was white around the mouth, but her inner self was gaining strength from Cavanaugh. She seemed utterly untroubled.
"I'll not break down," she assured him from a dry throat.
She had the curious feeling that by keeping steadfast she was aiding Cavanaugh. Her own troubles had reached a state of numbness. Only a few minutes before she had

Why BEAUTY from TAHITI FAILED as a FOLLIES STAR

Reri, Who Won Fame as a Motion Picture Actress, Sent Back to Her Native Land After a Series of Misfortunes on Broadway.

BROADWAY has failed to put its mark on Reri.
Ever since the dazzling South Seas star of the film, "Tabu," arrived in New York to be glorified in the "Follies," the Pygmaliions of the stage have tried to make her a carbon of their other Galatas.
To attain their ends they resorted to their routine bag of tricks. They lifted her to Broadway's rarefied heights, then let her slip to its depths. They established her in a de luxe suite at a swank Fifth Avenue Hotel, then when illness overtook her left her to shift for herself in an uptown hospital. They gave her the taste of big money, then shut off the source of her gold supply. They surrounded her with the wealth of Park avenue's playing profession, then told a Judge to use his own discretion in choosing for her a legal guardian.

Yet, in spite of it all, the 18-year-old "Follies" beauty from Polynesia has not changed.
To be sure, the glorifying process she went through has left certain traces. Her eyebrows have become two fine black lines that arch artificially above sultry brown eyes. Her lips, in contrast with her natural sun-tanned countenance, are now a brilliant drug store red.

Her speech is a quaint mixture of broken English and slang American. She has learned to ride in elevators and subways without giggling, keep appointments, distinguish between bathtub and imported gin.
But these are external marks. Behind the stage smile on her carmine lips, Reri of the "Follies" is the same naive, unspoiled, take-it-as-it-comes child of Tahiti who sailed away from Papeete almost two years ago.

Fate made her an overnight screen sensation. And the flip of a coin brought her to Broadway and its dazzling play spots.

Despite the weeks of profound discouragement that followed her brief hour of triumph there, her name—through no particular effort on her part—appeared in innumerable lights again last summer in front of the chief amusement houses of the country.

AND when United States immigration officials decided recently that she had overstayed her American hula-day, arrangements were speedily made for her to sail for Europe and a series of personal appearances on the Continent.

Contrary to press agent tales that preceded the first showing of "Tabu"—stories which portrayed Reri as an unspoiled child of nature, dwelling in carefree obscurity on the faraway atoll of Bora Bora—she was born a "biting" red mouth and eyes as blue and clear as a child's.

Curiously enough, it was at the Cercle Bougainville, famous throughout the South Seas as the rendezvous for all resident and visiting celebrities in Tahiti, that Reri got her first big chance. Slipping a cocktail with a party of friends on the balcony there, she unconsciously attracted the attention of the late F. W. Murnau, the distinguished German motion picture director. He had just arrived in Papeete to screen "Tabu."

"Who is she?" he demanded of Alex Stergios, host of the club. "Introduce me. There is my star."
At the prospect of becoming one with Garbo and Crawford delighted Reri—Or Anna, as she was still being called. But the tedium, the mechanics of a movie star's life soon dulled her enthusiasm. She developed a disconcerting habit of slipping out on the picture to make tapdances with her friends.
Agast at the antics of his play-loving prima donna, the German director finally posted a guard over her on the lot, and domiciled her at the home of Bill Bainbridge, the half-caste business man of Papeete who was acting as his local agent.

Only on steamer nights was she allowed off the lot or out of the house without some member of the company at her heels.

At last the picture was finished. Murnau and his associates returned to the States. Reri resumed her carefree existence.

Several months later, in the old barn on his farm outside New York where he previewed scores of pictures, the late Flo Ziegfeld saw "Tabu."
Thus it came about that a cable with an invitation to join his "Follies" was dispatched across the Pacific, addressed to "Miss Reri, daughter of Tabu, Bora Bora, South Seas."

Reri was at the Bougainville at the time, "partying" with a group of friends. Among them was a chap from Chicago, known to her only as "Al Capone," his Papeete nickname, who was destined to play the key role in her immediate future.

But let Reri herself tell you what happened next as she told it to a friend recently.

"BEFORE I knew myself what I do," she began in her picturesque broken English, "everybody at the Bougainville ask me—will I go to Follies. So I say, 'Why should I? How do I know I will have a good time in New York?'"

"Then 'Al Capone,' he tell me I am crazy—that Meester Ziegfeld is best man in America, and when he send for me I should go. So somebody at the table—maybe it was Momo, I forget—say, 'All right! If he is so beg, we will drink to tell him to bring more rainbow cocktail. Queek!'"

"After we drink, 'Al Capone' say he will sleep coin, and if it is heads I will stay in Tahiti, but if it is tails I will go to New York. So he sleep. And it is tails."

"I am like crazy. So I go home and ask my mother what shall I do. She is very sensible woman, and she say to me, 'It would be nice to see, Anna, and you have never been to San Francisco.'"

"So I go back to the Bougainville, and 'Al Capone'—he write a cable to Meester Ziegfeld for me, and I say 'okay.'"

What happened after that is the actual history.

Overnight Reri became the rave of Broadway. And Park Avenue hostesses began vying with one another for the privilege of entertaining her in their palatial penthouses. But on the stage it was different. The "Follies" directors suddenly marooned her on a stage, set with a few synthetic palm trees, in the middle of the world's most sophisticated entertainment, and waited.

Without benefit of the staging given to their other, more theatrical broken stars, they expected her exotic Polynesian beauty and simple South Sea hula steps to stop the show. And when they didn't, well—

RERI's coming had already netted the "Follies" a million dollars' worth of free publicity. And the performance needed nothing.

So they threw out her act, turned in her contract, left her to shift for herself along what some writer recently called The Double Cross roads of the World.

There followed a dancing engagement at a smart Uptown night club, made brief by an emergency operation. And the 17-year-old charmer from the South Seas, who

a few brief weeks before had been the sensation of Broadway and Park Avenue, found herself in a New York hospital on New Year's Eve—alone.

Today Reri's star is once more soaring high.

A Beauty Expert on Housework

This BEAUTY EXPERT Says:

CLEANLINESS INSTITUTE is a remarkable organization given over to the study of that which makes a woman beautiful. Their experts have made an extensive study of the various movements used in housework and find that "it's surprising how many of the positions and movements are exactly like those for games and exercises."

They venture that if women would about their housework with as much attention to form as if playing golf or tennis, they would derive very much the same sort of benefits from it.

"The Apparatus in Your Kitchen." In order to get the utmost benefit out of your housework, you must use the right apparatus. Kitchen table is the right place for you, and an adjustable stool, preferably with a back. Why stand and stoop when ironing, when you can adjust said stool to the right height and be seated. And your sink. Is it the right height for you so that you can stand in it easy, upright position before it? Continual stooping over a low sink means drooping shoulders and fatigued nerves. A block of wood under the dishpan will bring it to the right height. Simple, isn't it? To save steps, all the necessary apparatus should be grouped right near the sink—dishboard at each end, soap dish near, shelf over the sink or near it with soap and cleansers, dish mop, cloth and clean towels hanging nearby.

There should be plenty of fresh air in every room in the house, particularly in the room you work in—window open top and bottom. While you work, remember to make a conscious effort to breathe deeply, slowly, regularly in and out. Try to count four each time you inhale and four each time you exhale.

Washing dishes? Remember to stand upright, abdomen in. Use wrists and elbow joints as much as possible, and some movement of the shoulder joint. New put the dishes away. If you have to reach up, that's fine exercise for arms, shoulders, back and neck. Conscientiously stretch. Feel a pull up and down your arms and through your shoulders. Relax as you bring hands down to grasp more dishes and stretch as you put up. Now stretch and extend your fingers, spreading them apart. Repeat a few times. Shake your hand from the wrist. Repeat five exercises for the hands.

By ALISON SKIPWORTH.

NOW that summer is gone, one's thoughts turn to whitening the skin tanned by the sun.

One remedy my grandmother used is still the best I've ever discovered. The recipe calls for two cups of yellow corn meal, added to sufficient buttermilk to make a thin paste.

The mixture is spread over the face and arms and kept moistened by frequent applications of buttermilk for half an hour. It is then permitted to dry for 40 minutes. Unless the sunburn is unusually serious, this leaves the skin soft and white after a single treatment.

been totally resigned to the abandonment of her whole career. The intervening time had been too short for a renewal of joyous ambition. For herself nothing mattered very much right now—she had an intuition that Cavanaugh in some way was connected with Kruger's death.

For herself she was quite willing to throw up the sponge. It made a difference, though, when somebody else—Cavanaugh—was involved. It was not that she loved him. Not that—but she had a feeling he was indecisively nicer than any man she had ever known.

Chicago slot machine manufacturer boasts that one of his new slot machines has been placed in Windsor Castle. Just a maneuver to silence the malicious complaints against too much formality in the slot of St. James.

Or perhaps the King plans a conference with American diplomats—England will pay the war debt. If America will play the slot machine.

At that, if the United States finances another European war we should get a package of hints.

And people who are too darn nice give, but never take advice.

The mere fact that a man 89 years of age should have yearnings for love and romance is not sufficient evidence to prove him incompetent to manage his own properties, Superior Judge Lacey has decided.

WE GIVE YOU MRS. PINCH

(New Item)

It is a pleasure and a duty to give a little well deserved publicity to Mrs. Goldie Finch, who is doing a fine work as president of the Women's Sunshine Club of this city. She recently accomplished a lifelong ambition when she lobbied through an ordinance providing that all cops be equipped with bird whistles, which, she points out, "will bring perpetual Spring to the criminal classes, and remind one and all of the season which means so much to our wee feathered friends."

GOOD NEWS OF GOOD TIMES
(New Item)

"It was the most indecent thing I ever saw," said the minister. "I blushed all through it. I couldn't look at the show; I couldn't look at my wife, and I couldn't look at my sister-in-law. I had to sit there and look at the floor and blush and blush."

Adam Scofflaw's Djournal

Up and sit in my magic vapour cabinet, with feet in a bath of herbs, so pured am I with a mid-derling cold I have caught, and find 'tis a great labour to open mine eyes, whilst when I sneeze it bloweth the pictures from off the wall until I think I will go out of my senses from mewling.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS
Do you mind the odor of a good cigar?

We pay you a nickel when you return the empty barrel.

Orange Trifle

2 tablespoons of granulated gelatin.

4 tablespoons cold water.

1 1/4 cups orange juice.

4 tablespoons lemon juice.

2-3 cup sugar.

1/4 cup whipped cream.

1 egg white, beaten.

Soak gelatin over hot water 5 minutes. Dissolve over water. Cool. Add fruit juices and sugar and stir until sugar has dissolved. Cool and allow to stiffen a little. Beat until frothy. Beat in remaining ingredients and pour into glass mold. Chill until stiff. Unmold and serve plain, with cream or pieces of orange.

Very Popular Now, Too.

If your windows are rather small and your ceilings low, a nice effect of height and length may be obtained if the over-drapes are allowed to come down to the floor.

The Worm Turns

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

This, the most daring robbery in Chicago for many years, required less than a minute. With perfect precision the gang surprised the messenger and his escort, disarmed the guard, and seized mail sacks. Throwing them into the rear of a light auto, they drove away and were within sight before an alarm could be given.

One sack contained 123 registered mail for the Fidelity National Bank, and the other contained 40 pieces for the Fidelity Union Trust and Savings Bank. The usual morning delivery of registered mail to these banks was suspended.

from $500,000 to $1,000,000. The Description of Hol Federal authorities said it be 24 hours before the value loot can be approximated. narily, the mail contains lit rency.

Fred Voelsch, who has a bank mail for 16 years, left the Federal Building at 7 a. m. with sacks slung over his shoulders. Three paces behind walked Stastny, the guard, a former man.

They crossed Clark street for artery of traffic, and walking north when four robbers closed in on them from rear.

No License Number
A fifth member of the gang appeared driving a car which had been parked around the rear of the store. The pair who had seized the car tossed the sacks into the back of the machine and then scrambled back into their car.

The two who had attacked Stastny, having disarmed him, ran away from the guard and into the car as it picked up and shot north on Clark street. "Get the license number," ordered Stastny.

"There isn't any!"

By a coincidence, a double-faced man on duty through the city at the time of the 2000 men having been of report early because of the disturbances at emergency stations.

Alarm Too Late.
When radio alarms were first received, squad cars rushed to the scene from all directions, bounding over the Chicago Loop and west, but by this time the fire was too big to be controlled.

Voelach and Stastny caught a good glimpse of the robbers. The lead gang was described as being 25 years old, 5 feet 6 in. and weighing 160 pounds.

face, Stasny said, and was a sweater, dark trousers and cap. The second man appeared to be about 25, Stasny said, and was more slender than his companion.

At the First National Bank, Stasny said, the stolen money was being held in a correspondent bank in the city of New York, parts of the country. Neither the First National nor the Second National Bank would say how much money would suffer any loss from the robbery, the Governor said.
